An ordinance providing for an increase of the city income tax from a rate of one half of one per cent to a rate of one per cent effective Jan. 1, 1977 was voted by Circleville City Council Tuesday.

The legislation was passed as an emergency measure. Councilman David Goldschmidt, chairman of council's finance committee, said the ordinance "has been a long time in the making."

"We have discussed this legislation with other members of council, the mayor and the city auditor. It appears to be the only way the city can remain solvent and still provide the necessary services of government to the people," Goldschmidt stated.

"Federal revenue sharing has not yet been extended by the United States Senate. This increase in the income tax will bring in more money than we get from federal revenue sharing. However, if the senate approves a federal revenue sharing bill, the finance committee will recommend the repeal of the $5 permissive motor vehicle tax which is presently levied on the citizens of Circleville," he stated.

He noted the reason for acting on the income tax legislation at this date was to provide the city income tax department a sufficient length of time to acquire all the printed material needed for implementation of the tax on January 1.

Of the six members of council present, all voted for a suspension of the rules permitting the legislation to be passed after a first reading on council floor. On the actual vote for the income tax, Councilman Steve Jones abstained from casting his ballot. Goldschmidt, David Crawford, Tom Wells, Harold Hoffman and Dixie Watters voted for its passage. Councilman John Jenkins is in the hospital and was not present at council meeting Tuesday.

In reviewing the city's financial report as of July 31 as submitted by city auditor Marvene L. Turner, Goldschmidt noted the general fund showed a deficit of $45,534.63. He also noted that since that financial statement had been prepared, the city had met two more payrolls and a more realistic figure was $75,000 in the red at the present time.

"It is becoming more and more evident that the city is not only having a cash flow problem, it is having a cash problem," the finance committee chairman stated.

Although the legislation came up with a great deal of previous discussion, Mayor Frank Barnhill has repeatedly warned council this year that if the income tax were not increased, the city would find itself in serious financial difficulty.

In other legislation approved Tuesday, an ordinance appropriating $300 for the fire department clothing fund to provide uniforms for new members of the department was approved. Mayor Barnhill said the city anticipated appointing three new firemen by Sept. 1. He said the investigation of successful applicants for the civil service examination for both the fire and the police departments is nearly completed.

An ordinance appropriating $1,000 for the Emergency Medical Team expense account was approved. This money is to pay for gasoline and other expenses incurred by the emergency squad.

An ordinance appropriating $350 for improvement of Fire House No. 2 where the emergency squad is housed was also approved. Mayor Barnhill noted this would complete the improvement of the building which was acquired from Shell Oil Co. over a year ago.

2 Americans Murdered By Koreas

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — About 30 North Korean guards armed with axes and metal pikes killed two U.S. Army officers and wounded four American enlisted men and five South Koreans in the demilitarized zone today, the United Nations Command announced.

The U.N. Command said the two American officers were "brutally murdered in an unprovoked assault." The announcement made no mention of any North Korean casualties.

The U.N. Command gave this account of the attack:

The two American officers, a South Korean officer and several American enlisted men were escorting five Korean service corps workers who were trimming trees in Panmunjom, the truce village in the center of the buffer zone between North and South Korea.

Two North Korean officers and several North Korean guards came to the area in mid-morning as the South Koreans were "routinely trimming branches" from a tree in the joint security area. The tree was about 35 to 40 yards from a U.N. Command checkpoint at the south side of the Bridge of No Return, over which prisoner exchanges took place after the Korean armistice.

After some discussion during which one of the North Korean officers expressed objection to the tree trimming, the North Koreans demanded that the South Koreans stop the work.

Shortly after, a North Korean vehicle brought additional guards, and one of the North Korean officers was heard to tell them to "kill" the Americans and South Koreans. The attack followed.

The two Americans died from massive head injuries and stab wounds, a Pentagon spokesman said in Washington.

The identifications of the dead and wounded Americans were withheld until their families could be notified.

The U.N. Command called a meeting of the Military Armistice Commission Thursday to protest the attack, but it was not learned immediately if the North Koreans agreed.

It was the second violent incident in the demilitarized zone this month. On Aug. 5, the U.N. Command reported a six-minute exchange of fire between North and South Korean troops, but no casualties or damage was reported. Each side accused the other of shooting first.

ODNR Announces Lodge, Golf Course Plans For Deer Creek

COLUMBUS, OHIO — The Ohio Department of Natural Resources today announced that architects and engineers have been selected to prepare final plans for a vacation lodge and cabin complex at Deer Creek State Park in Pickaway and Fayette counties.

Natural Resources Director Robert W. Teater said he is requesting $2,223,000 from the State Controlling Board to cover the cost of three contracts, the purchase of additional property at the park and construction costs for an access roadway.

PDT & Co., at Cincinnati architectural and planning firm, will design and prepare construction plans and specifications for the 112-room lodge and 25 deluxe housekeeping cabins.

Jones & Stuckey Ltd., of Columbus, a consulting engineering firm, will design an access road to the lodge site. The access road of 2.8 miles will cost an estimated $1,017,910. The Department of Natural Resources is requesting release of the roadway construction funds now in order to expedite the award of construction contracts so the roadway may be used while the lodge is under construction.

Kidwell & Hurdzan of Columbus, a golf course architectural firm, will design an 18-hole golf course which will complete the lodge and cabins and other existing recreational facilities at Deer Creek.

The amount being requested from the controlling board includes money for the purchase of 281.80 acres of land, which will be used for the main entrance way, a part of the golf course, and as a buffer area for the total complex.

Deer Creek State Park is 36 miles southwest of Columbus via Interstate 71 to State Routes 56 and 207.

"Construction of these facilities at Deer Creek will provide a much needed full service park in Central Ohio, so long advocated by Gov. James A. Rhodes," Director Teater said. "The park also follows Gov. Rhodes' interest in putting these facilities close to urban areas as it is within an hour's drive of Columbus, Dayton, Springfield and Chillicothe."

The new lodge at Deer Creek will be the seventh overnight lodge in the Ohio state parks system. The existing lodges with overnight accommodations are at Burr Oak State Park near Athens, Shawnee State Park near Portsmouth, Hueston Woods State Park near Oxford, Mohican State Park near Mansfield, Punderson State Park near Cleveland and Salt Fork State Park near Cambridge.

GOP Nomination Set; Ford Seen Victor

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — President Ford appears firmly in control of the 1976 Republican National Convention as the delegates prepare to choose the party's presidential nominee tonight. He established his dominance with a clear-cut victory on an issue chosen by challenger Ronald Reagan.

The climactic confrontation toward which Ford and Reagan have moved for nine months was hours away and only a reversal that would rank as a political miracle could keep Ford from a first-ballot victory.

After the defeat of Reagan's bid to force Ford to name his running mate this morning, attention turned to the remaining men on Ford's list of prospects, said by one source to number only five now.

Ford was described as delighted with the outcome of the first test of strength at the convention.

A Reagan spokesman said the former California governor still expects to win the presidential nomination. He described Reagan as "disappointed but not completely surprised." But Reagan's campaign director acknowledged that it would be an uphill battle.

Westfall Schools Opening Set

The opening of schools in the Westfall School District has been set for Aug. 31. The first day is to be a full session for grades one through 12; the first day for kindergarten is Sept. 1.

New school hours are: grades six through 12, 7:50 a.m. to 2:40 p.m.; grades one through five, 9:10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.; kindergarten sessions are 9:10 a.m. to 11:50 a.m. and 12:50 p.m. to 3:30 p.m.

The attendance area for the new kindergarten class at the Monroe Elementary School is the south portion of Monroe Twp. to and including State Route 56, Route 316, and Dennis Road, and all of Perry Twp. The projected enrollment of this class from this area is 29 and is to be a morning session.

Kindergarten students in the northern part of Monroe Twp., Era, Derby, and the south part of Darby Twp. will attend the Darby Elementary morning session. The students from Harrisburg-Darbyville Road, north portion of Darby Twp. and Clark's Lake area will attend the afternoon session at Darby Elementary School.

The Jackson Kindergarten morning classes will be made up of students from Deer Creek Twp., Williamsport, and Smith Hulse Road, Route 56, Circleville London Northern Road and the Shady Acres Trailer Court from Jackson Twp. The afternoon session students will be from Muhlenburg Twp., Darbyville, and all north of the Florence Chapel Road, and East of State Route 104.

Attendance areas for the grades one through 5 will remain the same.

Students new to the district should register between Aug. 19 and Aug. 31.

The Pickaway-Ross JVS students will have their first day of classes on Sept. 1. These students will be picked up by the buses on grade 6-12 regular routes and loaded onto buses to shuttle to the JVS. In the afternoon there will be three separate routes from the high school to take students home.

Weather

Sunny and warm today and Thursday with a high today in the middle 80s and Thursday's temperatures in the upper 80s. Clear tonight with a low in the lower 60s. Chances of precipitation, near zero today, tonight and Thursday. High Tuesday was 77 with a low during the night of 52.

After a decisive 1,180-1,069 victory in the first major test of this 31st GOP convention, Ford's strategists worked out a compromise that avoided another floor fight over the foreign policy plank in the party platform.

Backers of both sides arrived at the convention hall Tuesday knowing that before the session ended they would have a clear indication of which man had the strength to prevail. It was an emotional night. The noise and the politics had escalated from the opening day sessions on Monday. The demonstrations when Mrs. Ford and then Mrs. Reagan arrived in the hall were louder and longer than they had been the night before.

Speakers were interrupted as partisans for both candidates tried to shout each other down.

The crucial vote came on Reagan's proposal to require Ford to name his running mate before the balloting for the presidential nomination. Ford's victory by a 111-vote margin was all the more impressive because the President had allowed Reagan to choose the issue and then trounced him in the ultimate test of political power: who can get the votes.

Ford's margin of victory margin was far wider than most observers expected.

That vote was taken within hours of the time the Associated Press delegate survey showed Ford had moved past the 1,130 majority of delegate votes he would need to win the presidential nomination.

Ford's strength continued to climb through the night.

The latest AP tally, based on legal commitments and publicly stated preferences, gave Ford 1,139, Reagan 1,039, with 81 uncommitted.

A Ford spokesman predicted that the President would win the nomination tonight and then would ask for a meeting with Reagan, a statement that immediately increased speculation that Ford would offer the vice-presidential nomination to his opponent.

And Reagan was on the list of five named by a Ford campaign source. Others on the list were Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee, Treasury Secretary William Simon, former Texas Gov. John B. Connally and former Deputy Atty. Gen. William D. Ruckelshaus.

Reagan has said repeatedly that he would not accept the vice-presidential nomination.

"Ronald Reagan will not be under any circumstances a vice president on any ticket," he told a delegate caucus on Tuesday. If he doesn't get the presidential nomination, he'd rather go back to his radio program and newspaper column, he told the delegates. "I want to advocate the cause I believe in, the conservative cause," Reagan said.

With Reagan's failure to force the President to disclose his choice earlier, the convention probably will have to wait, as is customary, until Thursday morning. Only a surprise victory by Reagan, who has said he would designate Sen. Richard S. Schweiker as his running mate, would change that.

ROUNDTOWN

WE learned from the state auditor's office Tuesday about an overpayment in gasoline taxes of $30,019 to the city of Circleville . . .

The amount of gasoline tax money returned to a political subdivision is based on the motor vehicle count of that subdivision . . .

We checked with the Ohio Bureau of Motor Vehicles and were told that motor vehicle registration in the city had dropped 50 per cent . . . But a spokesman at BMV admitted the drop in auto ownership in the city did not seem reasonable . . .

He reported that in 1970, the motor vehicle count was 6,995, in 1971 it was 6,915, in 1972 it was 8,201, in 1973 it was 8,375, and in 1974, the year in question, it dropped to 4,109 .

County Auditor Margaret Remy said Circleville was not the only local political subdivision that was overpaid, but it was the largest overpayment.

After the vote on the rules proposal, White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Ford "is delighted with the victory and he believes it is a good indication of how the vote will turn out when the convention votes on the presidential nomination."

Sen. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan, convention floor manager for Ford, said the rules vote "clearly demonstrates President Ford is in control of this convention."

A few hours before the Tuesday session, John P. Sears, Reagan's campaign manager, predicted that the session "could well be one of the most exciting nights in political history.... Our list of delegates, I think, will be fairly obvious tonight.... We have a count and we're quite pleased with it."

But Sears was pressed to talk about the possibility of defeat and what it would mean.

"It would create problems," acknowledged Sears, if they lost on the rules vote. But the plump, graying lawyer who has proven himself an adept practitioner of the political surprise, said a loss wouldn't mean the end of the Reagan effort: "I guess I always think there are things you can do."

After the vote on the vice presidential rule, there still was a possibility of a fight over the abortion

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices moved higher today, continuing the strength of the previous two sessions. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up about a point in early trading and advances led declines on the New York Stock Exchange.

Stocks as usual were active shortly after the opening bell.

Brokers said the market may be encouraged by government reports that housing permits, an important indicator of future economic activity, climbed 6 per cent in July to their highest level in more than two years. Also, personal income rose one per cent last month, its biggest monthly jump since last August, the government said.

Although President Ford appeared to be widening his lead in the race for the GOP nomination, the final choice has not been made creating an uncertainty for the market, brokers noted.

Active stocks included American Telephone & Telegraph, up 1/4 to 60 1/2 and U.S. Steel, off 1/8 at 49 1/4.

On Tuesday, the Dow Jones industrial average advanced 6.57 points to 999.34, its highest close in about five weeks. Investors showed interest in such stocks as Procter & Gamble and S.S. Kresge which reported sharply higher second quarter earnings.

Ice Cream, Maybe

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Ice cream and sandwiches, maybe? Judging from the store sign, the proprietor of the restaurant appeared to be in doubt.

Actually, the neon sign had said, "Mayberry," but the "rry" portion burned out recently, leaving the "maybe" in effect.

City Council . . .

using it as a firehouse, Fire Chief Mike Brown has been unable to use it because the manpower of the fire department was below authorized strength. Appointment of the three men to the department will bring it up to authorized strength.

Also approved was legislation appropriating $2,440 for traffic signal controls at the North Pickaway, Northridge Road, Atwater Ave. intersection. The new traffic control will include a push button device for pedestrian traffic. The light at North Pickaway Street will be eliminated and a stop sign has been placed there.

Councilman Jones reported he has received a complaint from a resident at 425 Stella Ave. who says he cannot use his driveway at all times because people block access by parking too close to it. Service Director Atwood Jones suggested the resident paint the curb yellow three to four feet from the drive to prevent cars from parking too close. He said if this solution does not work that he will take a closer look at the situation to see what remedy he would recommend.

Councilman Jones also noted a resident of Ruth Ave. complained about large chuckholes in the street.

Councilman Wells noted there is a serious mosquito problem in the city and that he has been talking to the health department about it. Wells said he was told that the health department will need money if it is to do anything about the problem. County Commissioners have already appropriated $300 for the health department's use and the funds have been used to purchase larvacide and a 3-gallon tank sprayer to eliminate the problem at the breeding spots. Wells said he was told if the department is to spray to kill the adult mosquitoes, several thousand dollars would be needed.

Councilman Watters reported that the railroad crossings are in bad shape again. He also noted he has received complaints about weeds growing along the railroads.

Watters brought up the subject of the lights in the city's business section all being turned on red for emergency vehicles. He noted the other day the lights were not turned on red until the emergency squad had cleared the lights and then were left on red for a long period.

John Adkins, city solicitor who is a member of the squad, stated it is a necessity to have the lights turned on red. He said there was no reason for them to be left on red so long and that was caused by a communication problem. According to Adkins all members of the squad are told to notify the police department when they leave Fire House No. 2 requesting the red lights and also notify the department as soon as the vehicle has cleared the last light.

State Bills Prohibit Phone Charge

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Two bills were introduced in the House on Tuesday that would prohibit telephone companies from charging for calls to the operator for directory assistance.

Both apparently were aimed to Ohio Bell Telephone Co. which began Aug. 13 charging 20 cents for each such call after the first three in a given month.

Rep. Michael P. Stinziano, D-30 Columbus, and Rocco J. Colonna, D-4 Cleveland, offered their proposals at a one-day session as the legislature resumed its regular 1976 session after a summer recess.

Among other new measures were a pair by Rep. Robert E. Netzeley, R-81 Laura, who recently called for an investigation into the lottery commission and its operations.

One Netzeley bill would require lie detector tests as a condition of employment by the lottery commission. It resulted from recent disclosures that seven or more lottery employees have criminal records.

His second bill would move the lottery headquarters from Cleveland to Columbus where he said it could be more closely watched and where influence by criminal elements would be less likely.

Netzeley, whose home county prosecutor discovered the presence of felons on the commission payroll, said recently he doesn't trust Cleveland and Cuyahoga County authorities to keep criminal elements out of the statewide, legally sanctioned gambling operation.

Income Tax Revenue In 1976 Is $229,043

Circleville income tax collections from Jan. 1 through July 31 of this year totaled $229,043.39 according to Marv Turner, city auditor.

There was a balance of $6,845.50 in the income tax revenue fund. Income tax revenue is distributed on a 50-50 basis with half of it going to the general fund and half of it earmarked for capital improvements.

Transfers to date are $109,767.59 to the general fund and an equal amount to the capital improvement fund. The remainder of the money is used for operating costs in the department.

The city income tax is collected on all salaries wages, commission and other compensation earned by residents of the city; on salaries, etc. earned by non residents for work done or services rendered in the city; net profits earned by businesses and professions in the city.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices moved higher today, continuing the strength of the previous two sessions.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up about a point in early trading and advances led declines on the New York Stock Exchange.

Stocks as usual were active shortly after the opening bell.

Brokers said the market may be encouraged by government reports that housing permits, an important indicator of future economic activity, climbed 6 per cent in July to their highest level in more than two years. Also, personal income rose one per cent last month, its biggest monthly jump since last August, the government said.

Although President Ford appeared to be widening his lead in the race for the GOP nomination, the final choice has not been made creating an uncertainty for the market, brokers noted.

Active stocks included American Telephone & Telegraph, up 1/4 to 60 1/2 and U.S. Steel, off 1/4 at 49 3/4.

On Tuesday, the Dow Jones industrial average advanced 6.57 points to 999.34, its highest close in about five weeks. Investors showed interest in such stocks as Procter & Gamble and S.S. Kresge which reported sharply higher second quarter earnings.

City Council . . .

using it as a firehouse, Fire Chief Mike Brown has been unable to use it because the manpower of the fire department was below authorized strength. Appointment of the three men to the department will bring it up to authorized strength.

Also approved was legislation appropriating $2,440 for traffic signal controls at the North Pickaway, Northridge Road, Atwater Ave. intersection. The new traffic control will include a push button device for pedestrian traffic. The light at North Pickaway Street will be eliminated and a stop sign has been placed there.

Councilman Jones reported he has received a complaint from a resident at 425 Stella Ave. who says he cannot use his driveway at all times because people block access by parking too close to it. Service Director Atwood Jones suggested the resident paint the curb yellow three to four feet from the drive to prevent cars from parking too close. He said if this solution does not work that he will take a closer look at the situation to see what remedy he would recommend.

Councilman Jones also noted a resident of Ruth Ave. complained about large chuckholes in the street.

Councilman Wells noted there is a serious mosquito problem in the city and that he has been talking to the health department about it. Wells said he was told that the health department will need money if it is to do anything about the problem. County Commissioners have already appropriated $300 for the health department's use and the funds have been used to purchase larvacide and a 3-gallon tank sprayer to eliminate the problem at the breeding spots. Wells said he was told if the department is to spray to kill the adult mosquitoes, several thousand dollars would be needed.

Councilman Watters reported that the railroad crossings are in bad shape again. He also noted he has received complaints about weeds growing along the railroads.

Watters brought up the subject of the lights in the city's business section all being turned on red for emergency vehicles. He noted the other day the lights were not turned on red until the emergency squad had cleared the lights and then were left on red for a long period.

John Adkins, city solicitor who is a member of the squad, stated it is a necessity to have the lights turned on red. He said there was no reason for them to be left on red so long and that was caused by a communication problem. According to Adkins all members of the squad are told to notify the police department when they leave Fire House No. 2 requesting the red lights and also notify the department as soon as the vehicle has cleared the last light.

Service Director Jones announced the crosswalks are being painted in preparation for the opening at school. There was a discussion about a crosswalk at Reber Ave. on Atwater Ave. that is not readily visible.

Councilman Wells said he had been asked if additional marking could not be installed. According to the safety director, the crosswalk is in the school zone and a 20-mile per hour speed limit is in effect. He said he did not think it would be legal to erect additional signs within the school zone.

Councilman Jones also brought up that he felt additional controls are needed for the light at Northridge Road and Court Street. He said he felt it presented a hazard when northbound cars turned right on red at the intersection at the same time that southbound cars had the green light to make a left turn. Adkins pointed out that right turn on red at any intersection is not permitted until the intersection is cleared. Adkins said the real danger at the intersection is to pedestrians who cross Court Street when they see the red light stopping northbound cars but southbound cars have the green light to proceed through the intersection. A similar situation exists at the light on Main Street and the Lancaster Pike.

Jones also noted that he has applied for federal funds to pay for the High Street Improvement project and also intended to apply for funds to improve Atwater Avenue and Edgewood Drive.

He said Pickaway County has a high priority rating for the highway improvement funds.

In addition to members of council present Tuesday, also present was president Joseph Bell, clerk Robert Shadley, the mayor, service director, city solicitor and Don Wolfe representing the department of public utilities.

Williamsport News

By EILEEN EASTERDAY, Phone 986-3481

This evening at 8 p.m. there will be the meeting at Legion Hall called by village officials and township trustees in the matter of the Williamsport school property. An offer has been made by the Westfall School Board for consideration and discussion.

Bridal Shower

Miss Becky Long, bride-elect of David Johnston of College Corners, was honored with a miscellaneous shower recently in the home of her paternal grandmother Mrs. Homer (Alma) Long. Hostesses were Mrs. Carl (Aunt Ruth) Long and Mrs. Don (Aunt Jean) Adams. Becky is a daughter of Bill and Valli Long of Daartown.

The marriage vows will be solemnized on September 4. Lovely gifts were received from Mrs. Puri (maternal grandmother) Cochenour, Mrs. David (Aunt Rita) Long, Mrs. Jack (Aunt Patti) Brayshaw, Mrs. John (Joan) Williams, Mrs. John (Mildred) Skinner and cousins, Jan Long, Kathy Adams, Kim Long, Jill Long Riddle (Mrs. Scott, Roxanne Brayshaw (Mrs. Rick), Becky's mother and her sister Jackie Long.

Pert and pretty Bonnie Long has returned to the area from her summer duties at the Medical Center at Yellowstone National Park. She will assume her nursing duties on the staff at Mt. Carmel Hospital in September.

Television has its "Welcome Back Kotter" and now here in our town we say "Welcome back, Dud!" Dudley Radcliff has moved into the property of his family recently vacated by Nell Jean "Sis" Corcoran who went to California. For a number of years the Radcliffs were a part of the Williamsport community and then the family moved into a lovely new home in Circleville.

Inez Lingo has returned home after being with her daughter Fern Mellinger of Wooster for over five weeks. Mrs. Lingo is not in the best of health and we all hope she gets to feeling much better just ever so soon.

Our dear, dear neighbors Harry and Emma Puffinberger are both in the hospital and Hattie Anderson continues to have health problems. Needless to say, we want so much for these three fine neighbors to have complete recovery.

Una Higman, another wonderful neighbor, is enjoying the company of two granddaughters this week. Becky Armentrout of Fremont and Laura Higman of Washington C.H. came Sunday and will keep the days lively until next Sunday.

Adding to this joy will be Gary Higman who will arrive in a day or so to spend time with his mother. He is a career Navy man. It will soon be nine years since Gary has been in Williamsport. He will find that it hasn't changed much and that is the blessedness of small town living, you know.

Glory be, was there anyone who did not attend the Alkire sale at one time or another Friday evening and all day Saturday? It can well be said that

"good prices prevailed". Our Amy did her first bidding and was so excited. She got the item she was after, too, so now she has been bitten by the "auction bug".

Her mama already has a real thing for auctions so it should be interesting what the future will bring. Poor Papa Bill!

My sincere thanks to Junior Keller and Dale Smith who were true gentlemen in helping me cope with my acquisition of boxes and boxes of jars and thanks to my Petey Pete Cochenour who came to my aid with the car so I could continue to bid on other items.

There was one gal who wasn't at the sale because she was off to Tennessee and the Grand Ole Opry. This was Dolly Thompson. Pickaway County all but invaded the territory down there over the week end. In Dolly's car there were her mother Hazel Weaver, sister Lynn White both of near Circleville and her aunt Ellen Wetzel of Chillicothe. Other Roundtowners in the party were "Stu" Forsythe, Betty Clifton, Ruth Lutz, Doris "Beaner" Reeser, Belle Sowers, Barb Rickman, Jean Alkire, Diana Reed and Betty Davis. Nashville will never be the same.

Richard Myers, who is an avid participant in barbershop music, spent the weekend harmonizing at Middle Bass Island, Lake Erie. Richard's picture appeared in the Sunday, August 8 issue of the Dispatch in the state news section. He was incorrectly identified as Richard Stewart of Chillicothe.

The Myers family, Richard, Lila and young Danny have resided in our town since early spring having rented the Easterday property at the corner of Main and Walnut Streets.

Colleen Justice was hostess to canasta club at her newly acquired home in Good Hope. She even played so well she won the prize for high score, traveling went to mustache minded Margene Looney, Pearl Cochenour captured door prize and Esther Picklesimer settled for low.

Providing further frivolity were Helen Timmons, Jeannine Hamman, Mae Litter and yours truly. A card was signed by all to be sent to Dorothy Carle who is mending from recent surgery. Secret sister gifts for birthdays or anniversaries were received by Esther, Mae and mustache minded Margene.

Be with you again next week, be the Lord willing. Take care.

Think about it: It's not what you pay a man, but what he costs you that counts. (Will Rogers)

Washing machines, some of the compression type, were advertised and demonstrated in Cincinnati as early as 1820, but never came into general use. Ohio women, long after pioneer days, laundered heavy clothing and bedding by the "rub and bile" method. Women used soft soap made from wood ash lye through many favorite recipes.

Lima State Findings Made Public

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's mental health officials have made public the findings of a highway patrol investigation into patient abuse and other irregularities at Lima State Hospital.

Copies were sent Tuesday to U.S. District Court at Toledo and distributed to newsmen who last week had received only departmental summaries on the Dec. 10, 1975 to Feb. 26, 1976 probe.

Mental Health Chief Timothy B. Moritz said a review by the attorney general and other officials showed nothing in the original report is in conflict with departmental testimony in the federal court which has been monitoring Lima's operations.

In addition, the report bared no further revelations about the hospital which had been accused in the earlier summary of a number of irregular and illegal procedures.

Moritz and Highway Safety Director Donald D. Cook are continuing to withhold the patrol's original reports on 28 other state institutions, explaining that parts of those documents still are to be presented in court where 82 various charges still are awaiting prosecution.

In the case of Lima, Moritz said he had received word from the Allen County prosecutor's office that there are no further cases there to be tried. The Lima probe resulted in six criminal charges being filed following an investigation of 55 incidents and interviews with 247 persons, the patrol said.

One resulted in the conviction of a patient for aggravated assault on another patient, another a conviction of an employee on two counts of assault, referral of another employee to a "felony diversion" program for grand larceny, and dismissal of two counts of assault against an employee after the victim failed to appear.

As the earlier summary had done, the patrol report described but gave more detail about how a physicians' rubber stamp signature had been used to obtain drugs — a violation of state law and of federal regulations.

The patrol report also noted failure of physicians to visit wards frequently enough — one woman's ward wasn't visited for a month — and other security and administrative procedures that need to be corrected. Fire hazards and staff disharmony were among other things cited.

By EILEEN EASTERDAY, Phone 986-3481

This evening at 8 p.m. there will be the meeting at Legion Hall called by village officials and township trustees in the matter of the Williamsport school property. An offer has been made by the Westfall School Board for consideration and discussion.

Bridal Shower

Miss Becky Long, bride-elect of David Johnston of College Corners, was honored with a miscellaneous shower recently in the home of her paternal grandmother Mrs. Homer (Alma) Long. Hostesses were Mrs. Carl (Aunt Ruth) Long and Mrs. Don (Aunt Jean) Adams. Becky is a daughter of Bill and Valli Long of Daartown.

The marriage vows will be solemnized on September 4. Lovely gifts were received from Mrs. Puri (maternal grandmother) Cochenour, Mrs. David (Aunt Rita) Long, Mrs. Jack (Aunt Patti) Brayshaw, Mrs. John (Joan) Williams, Mrs. John (Mildred) Skinner and cousins, Jan Long, Kathy Adams, Kim Long, Jill Long Riddle (Mrs. Scott, Roxanne Brayshaw (Mrs. Rick), Becky's mother and her sister Jackie Long.

Pert and pretty Bonnie Long has returned to the area from her summer duties at the Medical Center at Yellowstone National Park. She will assume her nursing duties on the staff at Mt. Carmel Hospital in September.

Television has its "Welcome Back Katter" and now here in our town we say "Welcome back, Dud!". Dudley Radcliff has moved into the property of his family recently vacated by Neil Jean "Sis" Corcoran who went to California. For a number of years the Radcliffs were a part of the Williamsport community and then the family moved into a lovely new home in Circleville.

Inez Lingo has returned home after being with her daughter Fern Mellinger of Wooster for over five weeks. Mrs. Lingo is not in the best of health and we all hope she gets to feeling much better just ever so soon.

Our dear, dear neighbors Harry and Emma Puffinbarger are both in the hospital and Hattie Anderson continues to have health problems. Needless to say, we want so much for these three fine neighbors to have complete recovery.

Una Higman, another wonderful neighbor, is enjoying the company of two granddaughters this week. Becky Armentrout of Fremont and Laura Higman of Washington C.H. came Sunday and will keep the days lively until next Sunday.

Adding to this joy will be Gary Higman who will arrive in a day or so to spend time with his mother. He is a career Navy man. It will soon be nine years since Gary has been in Williamsport. He will find that it hasn't changed much and that is the blessedness of small town living, you know.

Glory be, was there anyone who did not attend the Alkire sale at one time or another Friday evening and all day Saturday? It can well be said that

"good prices prevailed". Our Amy did her first bidding and was so excited. She got the item she was after, too, so now she has been bitten by the "auction bug".

Her mama already has a real thing for auctions so it should be interesting what the future will bring. Poor Papa Bill!

My sincere thanks to Junior Keller and Dale Smith who were true gentlemen in helping me cope with my acquisition of boxes and boxes of jars and thanks to my Petey Pete Cochenour who came to my aid with the car so I could continue to bid on other items.

There was one gal who wasn't at the sale because she was off to Tennessee and the Grand Ole Opry. This was Dolly Thompson. Pickaway County all but invaded the territory down there over the week end. In Dolly's car there were her mother Hazel Weaver, sister Lynn White both of near Circleville and her aunt Ellen Wetzel of Chillicothe. Other Roundtowners in the party were "Stu" Forsythe, Betty Clifton, Ruth Lutz, Doris "Beaner" Reeser, Belle Sowers, Barb Rickman, Jean Alkire, Diana Reed and Betty Davis. Nashville will never be the same.

Richard Myers, who is an avid participant in barbershop music, spent the weekend harmonizing at Middle Bass Island, Lake Erie. Richard's picture appeared in the Sunday, August 8 issue of the Dispatch in the state news section. He was incorrectly identified as Richard Stewart of Chillicothe.

The Myers family, Richard, Lila and young Danny have resided in our town since early spring having rented the Easterday property at the corner of Main and Walnut Streets.

Colleen Justice was hostess to canasta club at her newly acquired home in Good Hope. She even played so well she won the prize for high score, traveling went to mustache minded Margene Looney, Pearl Cochenour captured door prize and Esther Picklesimer settled for low.

Providing further frivolity were Helen Timmons, Jeannine Hamman, Mae Litter and yours truly. A card was signed by all to be sent to Dorothy Carle who is mending from recent surgery. Secret sister gifts for birthdays or anniversaries were received by Esther, Mae and mustache minded Margene.

Be with you again next week, be the Lord willing. Take care.

Think About: It's not what you pay a man, but what he costs you that counts. (Will Rogers)

Washing machines, some of the compression type, were advertised and demonstrated in Cincinnati as early as 1820, but never came into general use. Ohio women, long after pioneer days, laundered heavy clothing and bedding by the "rub and bile" method. Women used soft soap made from wood ash lye through many favorite recipes.

Lima State Findings Made Public

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's mental health officials have made public the findings of a highway patrol investigation into patient abuse and other irregularities at Lima State Hospital.

Copies were sent Tuesday to U.S. District Court at Toledo and distributed to newsmen who last week had received only departmental summaries on the Dec. 10, 1975 to Feb. 26, 1976 probe.

Mental Health Chief Timothy B. Moritz said a review by the attorney general and other officials showed nothing in the original report is in conflict with departmental testimony in the federal court which has been monitoring Lima's operations.

In addition, the report bared no further revelations about the hospital which had been accused in the earlier summary of a number of irregular and illegal procedures.

Moritz and Highway Safety Director Donald D. Cook are continuing to withhold the patrol's original reports on 28 other state institutions, explaining that parts of those documents still are to be presented in court where 82 various charges still are awaiting prosecution.

In the case of Lima, Moritz said he had received word from the Allen County prosecutor's office that there are no further cases there to be tried. The Lima probe resulted in six criminal charges being filed following an investigation of 55 incidents and interviews with 247 persons, the patrol said.

One resulted in the conviction of a patient for aggravated assault on another patient, another a conviction of an employee on two counts of assault, referral of another employee to a "felony diversion" program for grand larceny, and dismissal of two counts of assault against an employee after the victim failed to appear.

As the earlier summary had done, the patrol report described but gave more detail about how a physicians' rubber stamp signature had been used to obtain drugs — a violation of state law and of federal regulations.

The patrol report also noted failure of physicians to visit wards frequently enough — one woman's ward wasn't visited for a month — and other security and administrative procedures that need to be corrected. Fire hazards and staff disharmony were among other things cited.

Prepare For Encounter

If you haven't been greeted on the street by a stranger who runs up to you, grasp your hand in a hearty gesture and says, "How do you do? I'm Horton Abercrombie and I'm running for ...," don't despair.

There are thousands of candidates beating the bushes for votes and there is a chance that before the November election at least one will have found you.

Most persons are surprised by the exuberance of political candidates and their obvious efforts to enlist support. No

In a lake of thousands of faces, the immigrant floats alone. He looks like Orson Welles, if Welles were a pirate. Brown eyes, frown out of a jungle of beard and brows. He sails rather than walks to his seat in the Florida delegation.

Nicholas H. Morley arrived in the United States exactly 20 years ago. He had $85 in Israeli currency. He was 27 years old. The immigrant did well. He has over $25 million in personal assets, and figures that he has 17 years to live.

A practical man. He weighs 280 pounds. Insurance actuaries give him 17 more years, and Morley accepts it with grace. He makes all his goals. Last year he wanted to build 2,000 apartment units in Venezuela. He built 2,100.

"What drives me? Who the hell knows. Working. Doing it. Making it happen." Will he feel better having $26

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — It isn't only the Republican party delegates at Kansas City who are faced with difficult decisions these days, although you might temporarily believe that to be so this week.

Businessmen, job-seekers, investors, home-buyers and many individuals identified by various other labels in the economic fight for survival are at present faced with very ticklish decisions.

The 1970s have been identified as a decade of transition, in which the country moves from the certain if potholed pathways of the 1960s, when self-confident Americans plunged ahead rather than pondered.

When we emerge from the transition, where will we be? Who knows. That's what makes decisions so difficult today.

In the early 1960s, if you thought like many other Americans, you were confident that your future would be brighter. Wasn't that the way it was? But in the 70s, well, you just don't know, do you.

Businessmen large and small haven't yet regained their confidence after the devastating recession, and the recent weakness in retail sales hasn't helped resolve their doubts. Capital spending plans remain rather weak.

Students no longer have the same confidence that their studies will pay off materially or culturally. There are PhD's doing clerk's work today because the once burgeoning educational system has begun to shrink.

Investors in the stock market are doubt there are many questions they would like to ask those vying for the privilege of serving them, but an unexpected encounter with a candidate seems to jog everything from memory except a stammering acknowledgment.

Pick up a pencil and paper and jot down the questions you would ask a political candidate if you were an acquaintance of his.

What are his solutions for this and that problem? What would he try to do about keeping spending in line with million rather than 25? "No. When a man is secure, he starts to give money away. What he strives for is success — to do something better than anyone in the world."

His father was Joseph Meshulam, Bulgarian Jew and owner of the Chupikupi stores. The Germans demanded a solution to the Jewish question in Bulgaria in 1942. Meshulam left with his family.

Nicholas was 13. They lived in the Albanian mountains for awhile. Meshulam bought a small wooden ship and nailed 90 Jews in crates. They reached Bari, Italy, and sailed from there to Haifa without challenge.

Nicholas and his brother fought in an illegal Israeli army. The brother was killed outside Jerusalem. Israel became a socialist nation. Nicholas worked at a kibbutz, milking cows, cutting weeds. "I hated it. You work hard but you own nothing."

And yet he remained there 12 years. He majored in languages and speaks Bulgarian, English, Hebrew, German, Spanish, French and Yiddish. At 22, he married Liza Covo, an Israeli with black hair, green eyes and the singsong voice of a child.

His father wrote from the U.S. that he was running a coffee shop in a place called Miami. Nicholas left his wife in Haifa and headed for Miami. The work ethic has always been of primary importance to this man.

He got a job at the Polly Davis Cafeteria carrying sides of meat from the refrigerator to the kitchen. He was paid $35 a week. He anglicized Meshulam to Morley.

He sent for Mrs. Morley. They had a son, Melvin. The harder Morley worked for success in the new country, the less he worked at marriage. In time, it failed.

Morley used his several languages in the import-export business. Success was a mirage on a placid sea. He quit and went to work for General Development as a real estate salesman. He was barely 30 when he was put in charge of their Latin-American division.

The immigrant bought it for $25,000, most of which he borrowed. He expanded it into Interterra Inc., which buys, builds and sells land around the world. He found he was married to the United States. He became the cornball patriot, always eager to serve his country.

Some years ago he was appointed an ambassador to accompany Mrs. Richard Nixon on a trip to South America. The bearded immigrant was photographed at her side. "If you hear a shot," the Secret Service said, "fall on the First Lady. Protect her."

"I will do as you say," he said solemnly. Then he hefted his huge waist. "If I fall on her, she will be dead anyway." He joined the Republican party in Florida and, at this convention, he is a delegate-at-large. His vote is for Gerald Ford all the way.

He appreciates art and luxury. He drives a gold-brown Rolls Royce. He owns an office building furnished in Brazilian rosewood and pale marble. There is a private dining room and crystal goblets. When he leaves one office for another, he snaps the lights off.

Melvin grows up in Switzerland. His father donates huge sums to the Boy Scouts, the Hebrew Academy and Florida International University.

The immigrant has a will. "It is inherent upon people with money to make sure that their sons work for their country, the place that gave their fathers the opportunity to get where they are."

And so the will states that the son of the immigrant will get his legacy only if he works for the American government at $1 a year . . .

filled with doubts, and well they should be, considering the nation's energy problems, the constant references to the dawning of the no-growth age, the persistent inflation, the uncertain politics.

"Savers don't have it much easier. More conservative than investors, and often smaller too, savers seek certainty, but they don't get it — not with inflation threatening to destroy their bank accounts and insurance policies.

The insecurity of the times is demonstrated also by the reluctance of many people to change jobs, although a rising percentage of the jobless rate is made up of people doing just that. Not enough to suggest confidence, however.

Young families are faced with problems as difficult as any. Should they rent for the time being and try to save money for a down payment? Or should they borrow from relatives and make the plunge right now?

Will the old days come back? If they do it might be worth waiting a couple of years for lower down payments and more acceptable interest rates.

But what if prices keep going up? Then the young couple is caught in a situation in which the savings accumulated in the bank might never be adequate for the down payment. Marriages have been ruined by less.

Over all, the big difference is that we have once again learned that the economic cycle can't be totally controlled and put into our service, even by the best minds of academe, business and government.

income, does he think taxes should continue to be increased, what about inflation and unemployment, and so forth.

Carry the paper with you and try to make a point of meeting candidates as they carry the campaign to your neighborhood. They may be slightly abashed at meeting a prepared voter, but the proof of their competency is in your opinion of their ideas.

The individual voter is not nearly as impotent as he often feels he is.

Country Music Awards Slated

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Johnny Cash and Roy Clark will cohost the nationally televised 10th Annual Country Music Association Awards Oct. 11.

The program will be carried live by CBS Television from the stage of the Grand Ole Opry House. Highlighting the show will be the announcement of the newest members elected to the Country Music Hall of Fame.

The winners will be chosen from two categories — living and deceased. Finalists in the living categories are Johnny Cash, Grandpa Jones, Vito Pelletieri, Hank Snow, Merle Travis and Kitty Wells.

Rod Brasfield, Paul Cohen, Cowboy Copas, Vernon Dalhart and the Delmore Brothers have been nominated from the deceased category.

In 1797, Lucas Sullivant of Virginia, aboard a wagonload of supplies, creaked up toward the head of the Scioto River and laid out the Village of Franklin, which later became Columbus.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Emergency rooms in hospitals have reported a marked increase in the number of eye injuries caused by tennis balls.

The high speed with which a tennis ball travels can cause severe injury. It is estimated that a powerfully hit tennis ball can reach a velocity of more than 60 miles an hour.

Thus it becomes a lethal weapon to those who are not trained in the proper protection against such injuries.

Young tennis players should be taught to protect the face with their racquet as they rush up to the net.

The American Cancer Society has sponsored a study of cigarette smoking among teenage girls between the ages of 13 and 17, and young women between 18 and 35.

The study shows four major trends:

1) A dramatic increase in smoking by teenage girls and an increase of really heavy smokers (more than a pack a day) among young women.

2) A great awareness of the anti-smoking message, but;

3) An all-pervasive smoking environment which overwhelms what these two groups have seen, heard or read about the dangers of smoking.

4) Changing youth values — which emphasize the emotional over the rational, making it easier to resist arguments against smoking.

Other points brought out by the study:

1) Cigarette smoking among teenage girls seems to be tied in with rebelliousness.

2) Since cigarette commercials have been banned from TV, the excellent anti-smoking messages have disappeared, too.

3) The teenage girl smoker is apt to be a "C" or "D" student; the non-smoker is apt to be an "A" or "B" student.

4) Housewives are more likely to be heavy smokers than working women.

Ruling Opens Way For Sale Of Oil, Gas Rights

NEW YORK (AP) — The Interior Department won a last-minute appeals court decision clearing the way for the first sale of oil and natural gas leases in the Atlantic Ocean today.

Oil company executives will gather in a hotel ballroom here to present sealed bids for the right to buy leases on 876,750 acres lying 60 miles south of New York's Long Island and within 45 to 90 miles of the coasts of Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey and Virginia.

The Atlantic acreage, known as the Baltimore Canyon Trough, is believed to hold as much as 1.4 billion barrels of oil and up to 9.4 trillion cubic feet of gas, worth together as much as $31 billion.

The sale — expected to bring as much as $600 million — was made possible late Monday when the three-man 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals overturned U.S. District Court Judge Jack Weinstein's injunction delaying the proceedings. He had ruled Friday in a suit by the State of New York, two of its counties and environmental groups that environmental interests should be considered more fully.

Weinstein said the Interior Department had failed to conduct thorough environmental impact studies or to consider adequately the possibility that the states might block pipelines and other facilities needed to produce and transport oil.

But Asst. U.S. Atty. J. Christopher Jensen, arguing for the Interior Department, told the appeals court that any delay in the sale would jeopardize the government's program to hasten the nation's move toward energy independence from foreign oil.

Jensen said it would be at least three years before oil production could begin and that if the Interior secretary meantime found environmental hazards, the government could suspend operations.

The appeals court called for hearings the week of Sept. 27 on the environmental issues of Atlantic oil exploration, with a final decision on whether to permit actual drilling to come later.

"We find nothing in this case which satisfies us that the Aug. 17 sale, in and of itself, will cause appellees any irreparable injury," the appeals court said in its unanimous decision.

"On the other hand, the national interests, looking toward relief of this country's energy crisis, will be clearly damaged if the proposed sale is aborted."

The sale is the latest in a series of federal offshore lease sales, which since 1954 have resulted in more than 13,000 wells that have pumped oil and gas worth more than $23.2 billion.

The high bidders on each tract in any sale win the right to search for oil and to produce any they find. Leases not developed in five years are forfeited.

Judge Drops Contempt

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — A federal judge dropped contempt charges against 213 miners Monday, removing the last block to a full end of a wildcat strike that paralyzed Eastern coal production for a month.

U. S. Circuit Court Judge Emory Weidner filed an order in Abingdon, Va., freeing the men who originated the strike from court action. They had been summoned to answer the charges Tuesday and some miners had threatened to continue picketing until the results of the hearing were known.

Weidner said he dismissed the charges and cancelled the hearing because the men had returned to work.

The men are members of United Mine Workers Local 1759. They struck originally against Cedar Coal Co. in a local dispute and expanded the strike to include eight states after U. S. District Judge Dennis Knapp fined the local $50,000 for contempt of court.

The miners, who said they were protesting federal court interference in union matters, spread the strike by sending out roving bands of pickets. Miners traditionally will not cross a picket line, no matter the issue involved.

Knapp since had dropped his fine, imposed because the miners ignored his back-to-work orders.

Food Stamp Dip Noted In Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Food stamp participation in Ohio decreased slightly during fiscal 1976, according to Tom McDowell, chief of the bureau of food stamps.

McDowell reported a decrease of 38,664 participants for the year ended June 30. In July 1975, 915,438 Ohioans were receiving food stamps. In June 1976 that figure was 876,574, he said.

Prepare For Encounter

If you haven't been greeted on the street by a stranger who runs up to you, grasp your hand in a hearty gesture and says, "How do you do? I'm Horton Abercrombie and I'm running for ..." don't despair.

There are thousands of candidates beating the bushes for votes and there is a chance that before the November election at least one will have found you.

Most persons are surprised by the exuberance of political candidates and their obvious efforts to enlist support. No

In a lake of thousands of faces, the immigrant floats alone. He looks like Orson Welles, if Welles were a pirate. Brown eyes frown out of a jungle of beard and brows. He sails rather than walks to his seat in the Florida delegation.

Nicholas H. Morley arrived in the United States exactly 20 years ago. He had $85 in Israeli currency. He was 27 years old. The immigrant did well. He has over $25 million in personal assets, and figures that he has 17 years to live.

A practical man. He weighs 280 pounds. Insurance actuaries give him 17 more years, and Morley accepts it with grace. He makes all his goals. Last year he wanted to build 2,000 apartment units in Venezuela. He built 2,100.

"What drives me? Who the hell knows. Working. Doing it. Making it happen." Will he feel better having $25 doubt there are many questions they would like to ask those vying for the privilege of serving them, but an unexpected encounter with a candidate seems to jog everything from memory except a stammering acknowledgment.

Pick up a pencil and paper and jot down the questions you would ask a political candidate if you were an acquaintance of his.

What are his solutions for this and that problem? What would he try to do about keeping spending in line with income, does he think taxes should continue to be increased, what about inflation and unemployment, and so forth.

Carry the paper with you and try to make a point of meeting candidates as they carry the campaign to your neighborhood. They may be slightly abashed at meeting a prepared voter, but the proof of their competency is in your opinion of their ideas.

The individual voter is not nearly as impotent as he often feels he is.

Patriotism

By JIM BISHOP

million rather than 25? "No. When a man is secure, he starts to give money away. What he strives for is success — to do something better than anyone in the world."

His father was Joseph Meshulam, Bulgarian Jew and owner of the Chupikupi stores. The Germans demanded a solution to the Jewish question in Bulgaria in 1942. Meshulam left with his family.

Nicholas was 13. They lived in the Albanian mountains for awhile. Meshulam bought a small wooden ship and nailed 90 Jews in crates. They reached Bari, Italy, and sailed from there to Haifa without challenge.

Nicholas and his brother fought in an illegal Israeli army. The brother was killed outside Jerusalem. Israel became a socialist nation. Nicholas worked at a kibbutz, milking cows, cutting weeds. "I hated it. You work hard but you own nothing."

And yet he remained there 12 years. He majored in languages and speaks Bulgarian, English, Hebrew, German, Spanish, French and Yiddish. At 22, he married Liza Covo, an Israeli with black hair, green eyes and the sing-song voice of a child.

His father wrote from the U.S. that he was running a coffee shop in a place called Miami. Nicholas left his wife in Haifa and headed for Miami. The work ethic has always been of primary importance to this man.

He got a job at the Polly Davis Cafeteria carrying sides of meat from the refrigerator to the kitchen. He was paid $35 a week. He anglicized Meshulam to Morley.

He sent for Mrs. Morley. They had a son, Melvin. The harder Morley worked for success in the new country, the less he worked at marriage. In time, it failed.

Morley used his several languages in the import-export business. Success was a mirage on a placid sea. He quit and went to work for General Development as a real estate salesman. He was barely 30 when he was put in charge of their Latin-American division.

The immigrant bought it for $25,000, most of which he borrowed. He expanded it into Interterra Inc., which buys, builds and sells land around the world. He found he was married to the United States. He became the cornball patriot, always eager to serve his country.

Some years ago he was appointed an ambassador to accompany Mrs. Richard Nixon on a trip to South America. The bearded immigrant was photographed at her side. "If you hear a shot," the Secret Service said, "fall on the First Lady. Protect her."

"I will do as you say," he said solemnly. Then he hefted his huge waist. "If I fall on her, she will be dead anyway." He joined the Republican party in Florida and, at this convention, he is a delegate-at-large. His vote is for Gerald Ford all the way.

He appreciates art and luxury. He drives a gold-brown Rolls Royce. He owns an office building furnished in Brazilian rosewood and pale marble. There is a private dining room and crystal goblets. When he leaves one office for another, he snaps the lights off.

Melvin grows up in Switzerland. His father donates huge sums to the Boy Scouts, the Hebrew Academy and Florida International University.

The immigrant has a will. "It is inherent upon people with money to make sure that their sons work for their country, the place that gave their fathers the opportunity to get where they are."

And so the will states that the son of the immigrant will get his legacy only if he works for the American government at $1 a year...

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — It isn't only the Republican party delegates at Kansas City who are faced with difficult decisions these days, although you might temporarily believe that to be so this week.

Businessmen, job-seekers, investors, home-buyers and many individuals identified by various other labels in the economic fight for survival are at present faced with very ticklish decisions.

The 1970s have been identified as a decade of transition, in which the country moves from the certain if potholed pathways of the 1960s, when self-confident Americans plunged ahead rather than pondered.

When we emerge from the transition, where will we be? Who knows. That's what makes decisions so difficult today.

In the early 1960s, if you thought like many other Americans, you were confident that your future would be brighter. Wasn't that the way it was? But in the 70s, well, you just don't know, do you.

Businessmen large and small haven't yet regained their confidence after the devastating recession, and the recent weakness in retail sales hasn't helped resolve their doubts. Capital spending plans remain rather weak.

Students no longer have the same confidence that their studies will pay off materially or culturally. There are PhD's doing clerk's work today because the once burgeoning educational system has begun to shrink.

Investors in the stock market are filled with doubts, and well they should be, considering the nation's energy problems, the constant references to the dawning of the no-growth age, the persistent inflation, the uncertain politics.

Savers don't have it much easier. More conservative than investors, and often smaller too, savers seek certainty, but they don't get it — not with inflation threatening to destroy their bank accounts and insurance policies.

The insecurity of the times is demonstrated also by the reluctance of many people to change jobs, although a rising percentage of the jobless rate is made up of people doing just that. Not enough to suggest confidence, however.

Young families are faced with problems as difficult as any. Should they rent for the time being and try to save money for a down payment? Or should they borrow from relatives and make the plunge right now?

Will the old days come back? If they do it might be worth waiting a couple of years for lower down payments and more acceptable interest rates.

But what if prices keep going up? Then the young couple is caught in a situation in which the savings accumulated in the bank might never be adequate for the down payment. Marriages have been ruined by less.

Over all, the big difference is that we have once again learned that the economic cycle can't be totally controlled and put into our service, even by the best minds of academe, business and government.

Emergency rooms in hospitals have reported a marked increase in the number of eye injuries caused by tennis balls.

Frost Interview With Nixon Set

SAN CLEOENTE, Calif. (AP) — David Frost will probably interview Richard M. Nixon in December at the former president's seaside villa for four syndicated television programs next year, according to a Frost spokesman.

Frost has said Nixon will respond in four, 90-minute interviews to questions about his career, his presidency and the Watergate scandal that drove him from office.

The interviews are scheduled to be aired beginning next February and March, prior to publication of Nixon's memoirs, said Wayne Baruch, vice president of Syndicast Services Inc. of New York, which is marketing the show. They will be shown on stations that have individually purchased the syndication rights, he said.

"Nobody will know what these telecasts contain until they go on the air," Baruch said. "There will be a tremendous amount of security."

New Ore Vessel Makes Lakes History

CLEVELAND (AP) — The longest ship to be built entirely on the Great Lakes is currently making its rounds between Taconite Harbor and Indiana Harbor with its cargo of 59,000 tons of iron ore pellets.

The voyage of this 1,000-foot carrier, the James R. Barker, marks a new era in Great Lakes shipping. Not only are the freighters getting longer, but the sailing seasons are getting longer and the order sheets for iron ore are getting longer.

The Barker, which was christened last week in Cleveland, is one of nine Great Lakes supercarriers (each 1,000 feet long) being built for steel companies or their shipping subsidiaries. The Barker is owned by Pickands Mather & Co., a subsidiary of Moore McCormack Resources Inc., and it was built in the Lorain, Ohio, yards of the American Shipbuilding Co.

Shipping on the lakes was increased by the Merchant Marine Act of 1970 which designated the Great Lakes as this country's "fourth sea coast." The intention was to provide subsidies and generally to encourage shipping on a body of fresh water that serves the greatest concentration of industry in the world.

U.S. Rep. Thomas L. Ashley, D-Ohio, of Toledo, likes to boast of how the tonnage of cargo moved on the Great Lakes is greater than the combined tonnage of the Panama and Suez canals.

The first supercarrier, the Stuart J. Cort, was built in Mississippi and later assembled in Erie, Pa. Another 1,000-footer, the Presque Isle, is really a tug-barge combination but it holds about as much as the supercarriers.

If you stood these ships on end, they would be only 250 feet shorter than the Empire State Building.

You can't build ore carriers much bigger than that on the Great Lakes because in order for them to get from Lake Superior to ports on the lower lakes they have to go through the locks at Sault Ste. Marie.

Frost Interview With Nixon Set

SAN CLEOENTE, Calif. (AP) — David Frost will probably interview Richard M. Nixon in December at the former president's seaside villa for four syndicated television programs next year, according to a Frost spokesman.

Frost has said Nixon will respond in four, 90-minute interviews to questions about his career, his presidency and the Watergate scandal that drove him from office.

The interviews are scheduled to be aired beginning next February and March, prior to publication of Nixon's memoirs, said Wayne Baruch, vice president of Syndicast Services Inc. of New York, which is marketing the show. They will be shown on stations that have individually purchased the syndication rights, he said.

"Nobody will know what these telecasts contain until they go on the air," Baruch said. "There will be a tremendous amount of security."

New Ore Vessel Makes Lakes History

CLEVELAND (AP) — The longest ship to be built entirely on the Great Lakes is currently making its rounds between Taconite Harbor and Indiana Harbor with its cargo of 59,000 tons of iron ore pellets.

The voyage of this 1,000-foot carrier, the James R. Barker, marks a new era in Great Lakes shipping. Not only are the freighters getting longer, but the sailing seasons are getting longer and the order sheets for iron ore are getting longer.

The Barker, which was christened last week in Cleveland, is one of nine Great Lakes supercarriers (each 1,000 feet long) being built for steel companies or their shipping subsidiaries. The Barker is owned by Pickands Mather & Co., a subsidiary of Moore McCormack Resources Inc., and it was built in the Lorain, Ohio, yards of the American Shipbuilding Co.

Shipping on the lakes was increased by the Merchant Marine Act of 1970 which designated the Great Lakes as this country's "fourth sea coast." The intention was to provide subsidies and generally to encourage shipping on a body of fresh water that serves the greatest concentration of industry in the world.

U.S. Rep. Thomas L. Ashley, D-Ohio, of Toledo, likes to boast of how the tonnage of cargo moved on the Great Lakes is greater than the combined tonnage of the Panama and Suez canals.

The first supercarrier, the Stuart J. Cort, was built in Mississippi and later assembled in Erie, Pa. Another 1,000-footer, the Presque Isle, is really a tug-barge combination but it holds about as much as the supercarriers.

If you stood these ships on end, they would be only 250 feet shorter than the Empire State Building.

You can't build ore carriers much bigger than that on the Great Lakes because in order for them to get from Lake Superior to ports on the lower lakes they have to go through the locks at Sault Ste. Marie.

Smaller Soybean Supply Indicated

WASHINGTON (AP) — A smaller soybean supply will mean relatively good prices for growers through the 1976-77 marketing year despite some drop-off in export and domestic demand, according to the Agriculture Department.

The 1976 soybean harvest, based on Aug. 1 indications, is estimated at about 1.34 billion bushels, down 12 per cent from last year's crop of more than 1.52 billion. Many growers reduced plantings last spring in favor of more corn and cotton since it appeared then that soybean prices would not be so favorable.

But soybean prices rose sharply from a national farm average of $4.52 a bushel in April to $6.73 in July. Those are prices for 1975-crop beans since this year's harvest is still weeks away. The new marketing year will begin Sept. 1.

"Even so, soybean use has been record high and stocks are declining," the department's Outlook and Situation Board said Monday. "Farm prices will likely continue strong in 1976-77, with the season average up somewhat from the $5 (per bushel) received in 1975-76."

The season price is what farmers nationally get on the average for soybeans during the entire 12-month marketing year.

The current season's soybean supply — the 1975 harvest plus 185 million bushels on hand last Sept. 1 — was about 1.7 billion bushels. Allowing for a carryover of around 200 million bushels this Sept. 1 and the new harvest, the 1976-77 supply will be about 1.54 billion bushels, approximately 10 per cent less than the past season.

While USDA experts said that soybean exports may drop about 5 per cent in the coming year and domestic crushings for oil and meal decline 8 per cent, the smaller total supply is expected to help keep prices up.

If soybean use, including exports and domestic needs, turns out as USDA says, the reserve on Sept. 1, 1977, could be around 120 million bushels, the smallest in four years. The reserve in the early 1970s declined to less than 100 million bushels during several years, including a drop to 59.6 million on Sept. 1, 1973.

In 1826, Cincinnati, the "Queen City of the West," had a population of 16,000, and with 25,000 population in 1830 was the largest city in the west. It boasted of four market houses, ten newspapers, two of them dailies; a college and a medical school, three boatyards and several plants for manufacturing flour, liquors and cotton and woolen goods. Meat packing also was becoming an important industry.

Variety Keynote Of U.S. Everest Expedition

By JURATE KAZICKAS
Associated Press Writer
ON THE TRAIL TO EVEREST, Nepal (AP) — The 12 members of the American Bicentennial Everest Expedition are as varied as the different shapes and sizes of the boots they hope will get them to the top of the world's highest mountain.

The 10 men and two women are experienced climbers with mountain conquests ranging from North America's highest, Mt. McKinley, to previously unclimbed ridges in the Peruvian Andes and perilous faces of the Alps.

The group now heading for the 29,028-foot peak of Mt. Everest includes two doctors, three lawyers, a dancer, a computer scientist, a pilot, a shipwright. There are Ph.D.s, summa cum laude graduates, a carpenter, a sky diver. Their ages range from 27 to 38.

"The most important key to the success of this expedition," said Phillip Trimble, the expedition leader and old man of the group, "is how everyone will get along. There has to be a level of tolerance. There is no room for big egos. It is a total team effort."

The nucleus of the expedition, which was mostly organized in the short space of only four months after permission to climb was received in March, is a group of five climbing friends—Trimble, Dan Emmett, Frank Oorgan, Hans Bruyntjes and Arlene Blum — which expanded to 11 include mountaineers with more technical experience. An American living in Nepal was recently added to complete the team.

"The success or failure of this expedition is not defined by whether or not we get to the top," said Trimble. "What I want most is for everyone to remember a happy experience. We want to give it the maximum effort and make it a trip we are proud of."

Trimble heads the legal affairs section of the U.S. State Department in Washington. A father of two, a Harvard Law School honors graduate and a Fulbright scholar, Trimble, 38, can more easily be pictured in his tent reading the paperback copy of "War and Peace" he brought along than slogging his way up the mountain.

Dan Emmett, 36, a Beverly Hills, Calif., lawyer in the real estate business, married with two children, remembered the first mention of Everest.

"I told Trimble he was a fool to consider it, that it was not in the realm of reason and that of course we should go. We're mountaineers and it's the highest mountain, the ultimate challenge. It's a great goal to strive for. Sure there are a lot more important things to do in life, but what an opportunity!"

Frank Morgan, a native of Sacramento, Calif., is another Harvard Law School graduate like his two friends and now practices international corporate law in Jakarta, Indonesia. He is a bachelor who turned 38 on Sept. 8.

"I like the idea of a shared adventure like this. It's an intense experience. The totality of your existence is involved with these people for such a long period of time," said Morgan.

Hans Bruyntjes, a 28-year-old former carpenter from The Netherlands, has the self-assurance of a man who's climbed some of the most difficult peak faces on the Alps. He said he'd rather be climbing sheer rock walls than the snow and ice of Everest and when he first heard about the climb, he hesitated three weeks before accepting.

"It's dangerous, that's why, he said. "On Everest you know you're going to risk a lot. It's a totally different mountain that involves 80 per cent endurance and 20 per cent experience."

I think it'll be the hardest thing I'll ever do."

Arlene Blum, 31, is a chemistry professor from Menlo Park, Calif., who started climbing while a student in college in Oregon.

"It was like discovering religion," she said. "Suddenly I knew that I belonged on top of a mountain." She organized the first all-women climb of Mt. McKinley in 1970 and has climbed peaks in Peru, Ethiopia and Kashmir. She has climbed higher than anyone else in this expedition—to a height of 23,700 feet in Afghanistan.

For this climb, Ms. Blum, who prefers Ms. to Miss, is putting off reporting to her teaching job at Wellesley College in Massachusetts until January.

Mrs. Barbara Roach, who is making this trip with her husband, Gerald, is 32 and the first woman to climb Mt. Foraker in Alaska and the only woman to climb the south face of Chacraraju in Peru. In regular life she is a dancer and says she is probably happier at that than climbing mountains, which she started doing 10 years ago with her husband.

But Mrs. Roach said: "Actually the two interests go together nicely. I use my dance exercises to train for rock climbing. Both involve balance, strength and control, and stability."

Gerard Roach, 32, a former peace Corps volunteer in India, now a scientist with the National Center for atmospheric Research, living in Boulder, Colo., has climbed eight of the 10 highest peaks in North America and has been around the world twice on climbing trips with his wife.

"Mountains are my life," said Roach. "You have to have the fire, that gut desire to get to the top. It's instinctive with me. And I'm physically prepared for the toughest thing I've done in my life."

Rick Ridgeway of Malibu, Calif., at 27 is the youngest and smallest member of the team. He has three steel pins in his leg, which he broke last October while climbing in Yosemite. A shipwright and now a freelance writer who hopes to write a book about Nepal's Sherpas guides, Ridgeway has day dreamed about Everest in the past but always dismissed it as an unlikely possibility. "It's a real ego trip to be here now," he said.

Miner's Widow To Leave Coalfield

CUMBERLAND, Ky. (AP) — As soon as her husband gets "a proper, decent burial," Kathy Hackworth and her 10-month-old son plan to go home to Wilmington, Ohio.

But she doesn't know when that will be.

The bodies of her husband and 10 other men are entombed in Scotia Coal Co.'s No. 1 mine at nearby OvenFork. A recovery operation is underway now to recover them.

"I don't have anybody here," the 27-year-old woman said. "I don't have any relatives down here. After it's all over, I guess we'll probably go back home to Ohio."

She met her husband John in Wilmington when he was living with a brother there. He moved back to his home in Cumberland and they eventually were married.

Last March 11, she became a widow. Her husband, who was 29, and 10 other men were killed in the second fatal explosion within 60 hours at the Scotia mine. Fifteen men perished in the first blast on March 9, but their bodies were recovered.

The mine was sealed after the second explosion because officials said it was too dangerous to try to recover the bodies. It was reopened July 14 and federal, state and company officials said it would take 60 days to recover the bodies.

But the recovery operation is tedious, and Mrs. Hackworth believes the timetable won't be met.

Mrs. Hackworth says she and other widows have been told by officials of Scotia's parent firm, Blue Diamond Coal Co. of Knoxville, Tenn., that the recovery operation is "one-third through."

"That means it will be the middle of October," she said Tuesday. "They keep saying mid-September, but they are one third of the way and this is the middle of August. They sent me a letter yesterday."

Ralph Dye, a Blue Diamond vice president, said the recovery operation is on schedule — that the bodies will be brought out of the mine in mid-September.

He said recovery teams have repaired 5,000 feet of the mine and are about two miles from the bodies.

Mrs. Hackworth contends there is a better and faster way to reach the bodies — by going down a "bore hole" nearer to the fatal section — and Rep. Carl Perkins, D-Ky., agrees. She says she believes the company decided to go the "long way" so that it can "start running coal again" as soon as the bodies are recovered.

Dye denied that the company plans to start working the mine as soon as the bodies are brought out.

"We have no scheduled work that would put the mine back in operation. That will be done only after the bodies are recovered. It will be quite some time I'm sure though before we work that mine again," Dye said.

Miner's Widow To Leave Coalfield

CUMBERLAND, Ky. (AP) — As soon as her husband gets "a proper, decent burial," Kathy Hackworth and her 10-month-old son plan to go home to Wilmington, Ohio.

But she doesn't know when that will be.

The bodies of her husband and 10 other men are entombed in Scotia Coal Co.'s No. 1 mine at nearby Oven Fork. A recovery operation is underway now to recover them.

"I don't have anybody here," the 27-year-old woman said. "I don't have any relatives down here. After it's all over, I guess we'll probably go back home to Ohio."

She met her husband John in Wilmington when he was living with a brother there. He moved back to his home in Cumberland and they eventually were married.

Last March 11, she became a widow. Her husband, who was 29, and 10 other men were killed in the second fatal explosion within 60 hours at the Scotia mine. Fifteen men perished in the first blast on March 9, but their bodies were recovered.

The mine was sealed after the second explosion because officials said it was too dangerous to try to recover the bodies. It was reopened July 14 and federal, state and company officials said it would take 60 days to recover the bodies.

But the recovery operation is tedious, and Mrs. Hackworth believes the timetable won't be met.

Mrs. Hackworth says she and other widows have been told by officials of Scotia's parent firm, Blue Diamond Coal Co. of Knoxville, Tenn., that the recovery operation is "one-third through."

"That means it will be the middle of October," she said Tuesday. "They keep saying mid-September, but they are one third of the way and this is the middle of August. They sent me a letter yesterday."

Ralph Dye, a Blue Diamond vice president, said the recovery operation is on schedule — that the bodies will be brought out of the mine in mid-September.

He said recovery teams have repaired 5,000 feet of the mine and are about two miles from the bodies.

Mrs. Hackworth contends there is a better and faster way to reach the bodies — by going down a "bore hole" nearer to the fatal section — and Rep. Carl Perkins, D-Ky., agrees. She says she believes the company decided to go the "long way" so that it can "start running coal again" as soon as the bodies are recovered.

Dye denied that the company plans to start working the mine as soon as the bodies are brought out.

"We have no scheduled work that would put the mine back in operation. That will be done only after the bodies are recovered. It will be quite some time I'm sure though before we work that mine again," Dye said.

Noneconomic Issues Stall Rubber Talks

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Although economic issues are settled, noneconomic issues remain to be resolved before a ratification vote can be taken to end what is now the 119-day United Rubber Workers strike against the industry's big four tiremakers.

Representative from each of the companies—Firestone, Goodyear, Goodrich and Uniroyal—are meeting in different locations to discuss such issues as work rules, grievance procedures and matters concerning safety and health.

As each company settles with the union and the locals ratify the pact, the firms will be free to resume production, said URW president Peter Bommarito. He added that this might take another two weeks for most of the companies.

Meanwhile, the lengthy strike was partially blamed by Goodyear officials Tuesday for their decision to cease production of bicycle tires and tubes at its New Bedford, Mass., plant.

Plant manager Glenn Johnson said the firm was ceasing production mainly because it had lost most of its bicycle tire business to foreign manufacturers, but that the strike didn't help Goodyear's competitive position.

Johnson said that effective immediately a total of 300 workers will be laid off. Only 85 of the workers had been working when the strike began; the rest were on furlough.

The New Bedford plant, however, will continue, to produce motorcycle tires and graphic arts products, he added.

The economic agreement arrived at provides for an hourly wage increase of at least $1.35 for the average URW worker. The current hourly wage is $5.50.

But most importantly, the URW gained a cost of living adjustment of one cent an hour increase for every four-tenths rise in the consumer price index. For the last year of the three-year master contract the formula provides for a one cent increase for every three-tenths rise in the index.

The last union contract included no cost of living escalator and settlement of the issue was the key unsnagging the talks, Bommarito has said.

Negotiations continue with Firestone in Cleveland; Goodyear and Goodrich in Columbus and Uniroyal in New York.

Ohio Votes As Expected At Convention

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Ohio's delegation voted along candidate lines Tuesday night in the crucial rules battle between President Ford and Ronald Reagan in what appeared to be a precursor of tonight's nomination ballot.

The Ohio delegation to the Republican National Convention voted 90-7 against a proposed rule which would have required Ford to name his running mate this morning, before the nomination ballot.

The convention rejected the rule change 1,180 to 1,069 with 10 abstaining.

President Ford opposed the rule change; Reagan promoted it. The positions were expressed openly during debate on the amendment to the convention rules.

Ohio's 90 votes against the amendment were cast by the 90 delegates pledged to President Ford. Six votes in favor of the proposal were cast by delegates pledged to Reagan, while one was cast by Lois Leggat of Willoughby, who was elected as a Ford delegate but later renounced her nonbinding commitment.

"I am the happiest person in the world," enthused Jacalu H. Ginnocchio of Cincinnati, a Ford delegate and one of the delegation whips.

"It came out absolutely beautiful, and it means to me that President Ford is going to be nominated on the very first ballot," she said.

Kelley Undergoes Surgery On Back

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley is progressing nicely at the Menorah Medical Center after undergoing back surgery, an FBI spokesman said.

Bill Williams, special agent in charge of the FBI office here, said Tuesday that Kelley was feeling much better. The 1½-hour surgery on Monday was to relieve pain in his back caused by a slipped vertebra putting pressure on surrounding nerves, doctors said.

Kelley was admitted to the hospital Sunday. It was not known how long he would remain there.

Project Turns Into Trust Fund

SOUTH WILLIAMSON, Ky. (AP) — A project started in 1941 by miners who needed a place to hold their union meetings has turned into a trust fund providing loans for students and others who need help.

The miners worked for the now-closed Pond Creek Collieries.

"The United Mine Workers local had been getting together in an old schoolhouse," recalled William Wells, a member of the six-man committee which passes on loan applications. "The local was forced out of there, moved to another location, then had to leave again. Finally, the men decided to build a union hall of their own."

Businessmen were asked for contributions, local carpenters donated their time, and "one day, we were the proud owners of a three-story building. It was named the Miners Community Center," said Wells.

In later years, however, Wells said, "The Pond Creek operation was sold, miners began drifting away, and the union local lost membership and began to dissolve."

The miners managed to rent out the building and Wells said he and several friends "ran a small business there for a while."

The end came when the center was hit by two floods. The floor buckled, plaster peeled from the walls and windows were broken.

"There was only one thing to do," Wells said. "The place had to be unloaded because it was going down hill fast. No money was available for repairs."

Wells can't remember whether the sale price was $11,000 or $12,000. "It was the committee's decision to set up a trust fund and provide aid for those who needed it."

The center is now occupied by a furniture store. The trust fund has grown to between $18,000 and $20,000, according to treasurer Edgar Scaff.

"If it's a good cause, we're willing to help with a loan," said Wells who is secretary of the Miners Community Center.

"Usually we do business with the families of miners who started the whole thing," Wells continued. "Not long ago, however, we provided the cash for a church which wanted to do some remodeling."

Scaff said most of the loans go to students. "I guess we've helped about eight or 10 kids get an education," he said.

One of those "kids" turned out to be Barbara Brozowski, now a 28-year-old English teacher at Johns Creek Elementary School.

"It got me through a rough time," she said. Mrs. Brozowski had dropped out of Pikeville College. She wanted to return, "but money wasn't available and my family couldn't help me. Then, I learned about the Miners Community Center from a friend...

"I was given a loan to take care of my tuition, books and clothing. The committee told me there was no deadline for repayment." Loans carry an interest rate of one per cent the first year and three per cent thereafter.

Summer has begun a slow return to Ohio.

Temperatures at daybreak were in the 50s, several degrees warmer than readings 24 hours earlier. Sunshine today and Thursday was expected to push the mercury into the upper 70s and 80s this afternoon and the 80s over most of the state Thursday.

Clear skies tonight will allow temperatures to lower into the 50s to the 60s.

A large high pressure system centered in northern Ohio continued to dominate the state's weather. As the high drifted slowly to the east, southerly breezes began invading Ohio and warming will continue into the weekend.

With the warming, moisture will increase and some precipitation will follow, probably about Sunday.

"There was only one thing to do," Wells said. "The place had to be unloaded because it was going down hill fast. No money was available for repairs."

Wells can't remember whether the sale price was $11,000 or $12,000. "It was the committee's decision to set up a trust fund and provide aid for those who needed it."

The center is now occupied by a furniture store. The trust fund has grown to between $18,000 and $20,000, according to treasurer Edgar Scaff. "If it's a good cause, we're willing to help with a loan," said Wells who is secretary of the Miners Community Center.

"Usually we do business with the families of miners who started the whole thing," Wells continued. "Not long ago, however, we provided the cash for a church which wanted to do some remodeling."

Scaff said most of the loans go to students. "I guess we've helped about eight or 10 kids get an education," he said.

One of those "kids" turned out to be Barbara Brozowski, now a 28-year-old English teacher at Johns Creek Elementary School. "It got me through a rough time," she said. Mrs. Brozowski had dropped out of Pikeville College. She wanted to return, "but money wasn't available and my family couldn't help me. Then, I learned about the Miners Community Center from a friend... "I was given a loan to take care of my tuition, books and clothing. The committee told me there was no deadline for repayment." Loans carry an interest rate of one per cent the first year and three per cent thereafter.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Summer has begun a slow return to Ohio.

Temperatures at daybreak were in the 50s, several degrees warmer than readings 24 hours earlier. Sunshine today and Thursday was expected to push the mercury into the upper 70s and 80s this afternoon and the 80s over most of the state Thursday.

Clear skies tonight will allow temperatures to lower into the 50s to the 60s.

A large high pressure system centered in northern Ohio continued to dominate the state's weather. As the high drifted slowly to the east, southerly breezes began invading Ohio and warming will continue into the weekend.

With the warming, moisture will increase and some precipitation will follow, probably about Sunday.

and foreign policy planks in the platform. But neither came to a roll call vote.

The attempt to delete platform language supporting those working for a constitutional amendment to prohibit abortions was defeated on a voice vote.

Throughout the day, representatives of the Ford and Reagan camps had been negotiating, trying to reach a compromise over the "Morality in Foreign Policy" statement Reagan wanted to insert in the platform.

In the end, Ford accepted the proposed statement, with its implied criticism of his and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's policy of detente with the Soviet Union.

Ford managers on the convention floor said they could accept the amendment because it did little more than reflect the principles followed by Republican administrations for years.

Debate on the vice presidential rule began shortly after 9 p.m., CDT. Former Rep. Thomas Curtis of Missouri moved for adoption of the Reagan rule. Curtis, a former chairman of the Federal Election Commission, said that requiring candidates to name their choices for the vice presidential nomination by 9 a.m. on the day the convention nominates its presidential candidate would "eliminate the use of the nation's highest office as bait."

Curtis also stressed a point used frequently by Reagan spokesmen, that the delegates had a right to know whom the nominee would choose.

Griffin summed up the arguments

used by the Ford against in opposition.

He called the proposed rule divisive and then said, "I don't know whether President Ford will ask Gov. Reagan to be his running mate or not. I, at least, want President Ford to have the opportunity."

"I see no merit in a proposal that would have the effect of locking Sen. Schweiker in, and locking Gov. Reagan out."

The call of the roll of states began at 10:13 p.m. The hall grew momentarily quiet when Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, temporary chairman of the convention, said, "The secretary will now call the roll."

The moment of testing had arrived. Alabama cast all its 37 votes, all of them pledged to Reagan, in favor of the proposed rule.

But as the voting progressed it became clear that Reagan was losing. In many states, delegates still listed as uncommitted in the presidential race sided with Ford on the rules test.

The featured speaker of the evening was Connally, who was attending his first Republican convention after a long career as a Democrat.

With the zeal of a convert, he lashed out at his former party. He accused the Democrats of unleashing "the curse and abomination of government which today careens about, so clearly out of effective control."

As for Jimmy Carter, the Democratic presidential nominee, Connally asked the delegates:

"Do you want to entrust the leadership of this land for the next four years to a man of whom you never heard one year ago?"

"Never in all the years since America came to occupy a role of world responsibility and leadership has any party ever asked the people to give their votes to a presidential nominee so little known, so little tested, so little proved as the Democratic party nominee for 1976."

Project Funds Released For Deer Creek

State Representative Myrl Shoemaker (D-Bourneville) announced that the State Controlling Board today released $29,000 to the Ohio Department of Natural Resources to finance a waste-water demonstration project at Deer Creek State Park in Pickaway County.

According to Shoemaker, the State has entered into a five-year agreement with the United States Army Corps of Engineers. Under the agreement, the Department of Natural Resources will operate the disposal system, collect samples, and plant and harvest crops at the test site.

The Ohio Agriculture Research and Development Center will provide laboratory services for the project in the amount of $29,000. The funds released by Controlling Board are for these services.

Shoemaker said that these monies will be reimbursed by the federal government.

The attempt to delete platform language supporting those working for a constitutional amendment to prohibit abortions was defeated on a voice vote.

Throughout the day, representatives of the Ford and Reagan camps had been negotiating, trying to reach a compromise over the "Morality in Foreign Policy" statement Reagan wanted to insert in the platform.

In the end, Ford accepted the proposed statement, with its implied criticism of his and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's policy of detente with the Soviet Union.

Ford managers on the convention floor said they could accept the amendment because it did little more than reflect the principles followed by Republican administrations for years.

Debate on the vice presidential rule began shortly after 9 p.m., CDT. Former Rep. Thomas Curtis of Missouri moved for adoption of the Reagan rule. Curtis, a former chairman of the Federal Election Commission, said that requiring candidates to name their choices for the vice presidential nomination by 9 a.m. on the day the convention nominates its presidential candidate would "eliminate the use of the nation's highest office as bait."

Curtis also stressed a point used frequently by Reagan spokesmen, that the delegates had a right to know whom the nominee would choose.

Griffin summed up the arguments

used by the Ford against in opposition.

He called the proposed rule divisive and then said, "I don't know whether President Ford will ask Gov. Reagan to be his running mate or not. I, at least, want President Ford to have the opportunity."

"I see no merit in a proposal that would have the effect of locking Sen. Schweiker in, and locking Gov. Reagan out."

The call of the roll of states began at 10:13 p.m. The hall grew momentarily quiet when Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, temporary chairman of the convention, said, "The secretary will now call the roll."

The moment of testing had arrived. Alabama cast all its 37 votes, all of them pledged to Reagan, in favor of the proposed rule.

But as the voting progressed it became clear that Reagan was losing. In many states, delegates still listed as uncommitted in the presidential race sided with Ford on the rules test.

The featured speaker of the evening was Connally, who was attending his first Republican convention after a long career as a Democrat.

With the zeal of a convert, he lashed out at his former party. He accused the Democrats of unleashing "the curse and abomination of government which today careers about, so clearly out of effective control."

As for Jimmy Carter, the Democratic presidential nominee, Connally asked the delegates:

"Do you want to entrust the leadership of this land for the next four years to a man of whom you never heard one year ago?"

"Never in all the years since America came to occupy a role of world responsibility and leadership has any party ever asked the people to give their votes to a presidential nominee so little known, so little tested, so little proved as the Democratic party nominee for 1976."

Project Funds Released For Deer Creek

State Representative Myrl Shoemaker (D-Bourneville) announced that the State Controlling Board today released $29,000 to the Ohio Department of Natural Resources to finance a waste-water demonstration project at Deer Creek State Park in Pickaway County.

According to Shoemaker, the State has entered into a five-year agreement with the United States Army Corps of Engineers. Under the agreement, the Department of Natural Resources will operate the disposal system, collect samples, and plant and harvest crops at the test site.

The Ohio Agriculture Research and Development Center will provide laboratory services for the project in the amount of $29,000. The funds released by Controlling Board are for these services.

Shoemaker said that these monies will be reimbursed by the federal government.

Toledo Turns Back Rochester, 11-10

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Jim Morris slammed two homers, a double and a single to drive in six runs, including the game winner, as Toledo nipped Rochester, 11-10, in International League baseball play Tuesday night.

In other action, Charleston beat Tidewater, 3-1; Syracuse edged Rhode Island, 3-2; and Memphis blasted Richmond, 12-1.

At Toledo, Morris' ninth-inning single brought home the winning run to give the Mud Hens their third victory in the past 15 games. Morris also hit a solo homer in the first, a two-run double in the sixth, and a two-run homer in the eighth.

Braves Dump Reds Again, 3-2

Sparky Anderson stays stoic and silent through losing streaks, so if you want to get the word from the Cincinnati Reds, you have to ask Pete Rose.

"We're not taking the game to them," says the Cincinnati third baseman in his usual direct observation. "This is not like the Big Red Machine."

The "Machine" hasn't been hitting on all four cylinders lately, and Tuesday night, the National League West leaders dropped their fourth straight game — a 3-2 decision to the Atlanta Braves. That's the longest losing streak of the year for Anderson's gang.

Anderson put it this way: "It doesn't mean anything more than if we had a 13-1 record. We're just not hitting — and that happens."

In the other National League games, Philadelphia whipped Montreal 11-3; Los Angeles trimmed the New York Mets 4-3; St. Louis routed San Diego 9-4; Houston turned back the Chicago Cubs 8-1 and San Francisco edged Pittsburgh 7-6.

Pinch-hitter Tom Paciorek's two-out, run-scoring single in the eighth inning led the way for Atlanta. Jerry Royster drew a one-out walk from Manny Sarmiento to start the rally, then stole second off reliever Will McEaney. Royster went to third on Rowland Office's groundout and scored on Paciorek's single.

Adrian Devine, 2-3, got the victory, bailing the Braves out of a bases-loaded jam in the seventh. Sarmiento, 2-1, the Reds' 20-year-old reliever, took the loss.

Phillies 11, Expos 3

Jay Johnstone ripped a double and three singles and batted in five runs while Greg Luzinski collected a homer and four RBI as Philadelphia battered Montreal. Winner Tommy Underwood, 8-3, allowed just four hits, striking out five and walking four.

Dodgers 4, Mets 3

Rick Rhoden doubled home the decisive run to cap a four-run Los Angeles rally in the fourth inning and the Dodger right-hander went on to post his 11th victory in 12 decisions by beating New York. The Mets took a 3-0 lead in the first on John Milner's 13th homer with two men on.

Cardinals 9, Padres 4

Hector Cruz drove in four runs with a grounder and bases-loaded double, while Lou Brock stole three bases and scored three runs to lead St. Louis over San Diego in a game featuring 19 walks.

Astros 8, Cubs 1

J.R. Richard fired a five-hitter and Roger Metzger drove home a pair of runs with a fourth-inning single as Houston defeated Chicago and ended a five-game losing streak. Richard, 14-12, struck out nine and walked only one, giving up the only Chicago run of the night on Rick Monday's homer in the ninth.

Giants 7, Pirates 6

Gary Thomasson's two-out solo homer in the bottom of the eighth inning broke a 6-6 tie and powered San Francisco over Pittsburgh. Just prior to Thomasson's blast, the Giants had tied the game when Steve Ontiveros doubled and scored on shortstop Frank Taveras' wild relay throw into the Pirates' dugout.

Tigers Edge California, 3-2

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

The Detroit Tigers' rookie bounded around the bases with his arms raised, jumping for joy all the way.

Mark "The Bird" Fidrych, right? Wrong!

"I'm always excited when I do something great and I don't do something great very often," said a bubbling catcher Bruce Kimm, who helped fellow rookie Fidrych to his 14th victory in 18 decisions with an eighth-inning home run off Frank Tanana — his first in the majors — that gave the Tigers a 3-2 triumph over the California Angels.

It was Kimm's night ... and Fidrych knew it. "Hell, yeah, I'm happy," said the young pitching sensation, "but not as happy as Bruce Kimm is."

Elsewhere in the American League, Kansas City edged Cleveland 4-3 on George Brett's steal of home in the 10th inning, Oakland nipped Milwaukee 5-4, the New York Yankees shaded Texas 2-1, Baltimore trounced Minnesota 10-3 and Boston split a doubleheader with the Chicago White Sox, losing the opener 2-1 and winning the nightcap 11-7.

Fidrych fell behind 2-0 as Ron Jackson homered for California in the fifth, but the Tigers tied it in the sixth on a walk to Kimm, Ron LeFlore's triple and Alex Johnson's sacrifice fly. Kimm then walloped a Tanana fast ball into the upper deck two innings later.

Royals 4, Indians 3

Brett stole home with two out in the bottom of the 10th. He singled with one out, stole second and continued to third on a wild throw by catcher Rick Cerone. With Dave Nelson at bat, Brett broke for the plate and was two-thirds of the way home before reliever Dave LaRoche noticed him and he slid safely under the pitch.

It was the fourth straight victory for the Royals and enabled them to remain eight games ahead of second-place Oakland in the AL West.

A's 5, Brewers 4

The A's stole four more bases to make 266 thefts, the most by a major league team since 1913. They're taking aim at the record of 347 by the 1911 New York Giants.

Trailing 4-3, Phil Garner walked with one out in the seventh, stole second and scored on Bill North's single. North took second on the throw to the plate and came home with the winning on a single by Bert Campaneris.

Yankees 2, Rangers 1

Graig Nettles slammed his 19th home run of the season on rookie Tommy Boggs' first pitch in the bottom of the ninth inning. Oscar Gamble homered for New York's first run while Doyle Alexander pitched a five-hitter and blanked Texas until the ninth.

rusher last year with 594 yards.

"I had a great preseason last year, but after the season started, they just froze me. I was getting maybe 12 carries per game. I look around the league and see those other guys get 1,000 yards and I know I can do it.

"But those guys are getting 250 carries a season. I'll never get close again as long as I'm here. You can't do it on 150 carries a season," he said.

Meanwhile, the Bengals appear to be moving away from the concept of bulky backfields. The addition of two-time Heisman Trophy winner Archie Griffin and speedster Willie Shelby of Alabama indicate a return to a lighter, quicker backfield.

Woman Repeats As Diving Champion

Braves Dump Reds Again, 3-2

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Sparky Anderson stays stoic and silent through losing streaks, so if you want to get the word from the Cincinnati Reds, you have to ask Pete Rose.

"We're not taking the game to them," says the Cincinnati third baseman in his usual direct observation. "This is not like the Big Red Machine."

The "Machine" hasn't been hitting on all four cylinders lately, and Tuesday night, the National League West leaders dropped their fourth straight game — a 3-2 decision to the Atlanta Braves. That's the longest losing streak of the year for Anderson's gang.

Anderson put it this way: "It doesn't mean anything more than if we had a 13-1 record. We're just not hitting — and that happens."

In the other National League games, Philadelphia whipped Montreal 11-3; Los Angeles trimmed the New York Mets 4-3; St. Louis routed San Diego 9-4; Houston turned back the Chicago Cubs 8-1 and San Francisco edged Pittsburgh 7-6.

Pinch-hitter Tom Paciorek's two-out, run-scoring single in the eighth inning led the way for Atlanta. Jerry Royster drew a one-out walk from Manny Sarmiento to start the rally, then stole second off reliever Will McEnaney. Royster went to third on Rowland Office's groundout and scored on Paciorek's single.

Adrian Devine, 2-3, got the victory, bailing the Braves out of a bases-loaded jam in the seventh. Sarmiento, 2-1, the Reds' 20-year-old reliever, took the loss.

Phillies 11, Expos 3

Jay Johnstone ripped a double and three singles and batted in five runs while Greg Luzinski collected a homer and four RBI as Philadelphia battered Montreal. Winner Tommy Underwood, 8-3, allowed just four hits, striking out five and walking four.

Dodgers 4, Mets 3

Rick Rhoden doubled home the decisive run to cap a four-run Los Angeles rally in the fourth inning and the Dodger right-hander went on to post his 11th victory in 12 decisions by beating New York. The Mets took a 3-0 lead in the first on John Milner's 13th homer with two men on.

Cardinals 9, Padres 4

Hector Cruz drove in four runs with a grounder and bases-loaded double, while Lou Brock stole three bases and scored three runs to lead St. Louis over San Diego in a game featuring 19 walks.

Astros 8, Cubs 1

J.R. Richard fired a five-hitter and Roger Metzger drove home a pair of runs with a fourth-inning single as Houston defeated Chicago and ended a five-game losing streak. Richard, 14-12, struck out nine and walked only one, giving up the only Chicago run of the night on Rick Monday's homer in the ninth.

Giants 7, Pirates 6

Gary Thomasson's two-out solo homer in the bottom of the eighth inning broke a 6-6 tie and powered San Francisco over Pittsburgh. Just prior to Thomasson's blast, the Giants had tied the game when Steve Ontiveros doubled and scored on shortstop Frank Taveras' wild relay throw into the Pirates' dugout.

Tigers Edge California, 3-2

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

The Detroit Tigers' rookie bounded around the bases with his arms raised, jumping for joy all the way.

Mark "The Bird" Fidrych, right? Wrong!

"I'm always excited when I do something great and I don't do something great very often," said a bubbling catcher Bruce Kimm, who helped fellow rookie Fidrych to his 14th victory in 18 decisions with an eighth-inning home run off Frank Tanana — his first in the majors — that gave the Tigers a 3-2 triumph over the California Angels.

It was Kimm's night ... and Fidrych knew it. "Hell, yeah, I'm happy," said the young pitching sensation, "but not as happy as Bruce Kimm is."

Elsewhere in the American League, Kansas City edged Cleveland 4-3 on George Brett's steal of home in the 10th inning, Oakland nipped Milwaukee 5-4, the New York Yankees shaded Texas 2-1, Baltimore trounced Minnesota 10-3 and Boston split a doubleheader with the Chicago White Sox, losing the opener 2-1 and winning the nightcap 11-7.

Fidrych fell behind 2-0 as Ron Jackson homered for California in the fifth, but the Tigers tied it in the sixth on a walk to Kimm, Ron LeFlore's triple and Alex Johnson's sacrifice fly. Kimm then walloped a Tanana fast ball into the upper deck two innings later.

Royals 4, Indians 3

Brett stole home with two out in the bottom of the 10th. He singled with one out, stole second and continued to third on a wild throw by catcher Rick Cerone. With Dave Nelson at bat, Brett broke for the plate and was two-thirds of the way home before reliever Dave LaRoche noticed him and he slid safely under the pitch.

It was the fourth straight victory for the Royals and enabled them to remain eight games ahead of second-place Oakland in the AL West.

A's 5, Brewers 4

The A's stole four more bases to make 266 thefts, the most by a major league team since 1913. They're taking aim at the record of 347 by the 1911 New York Giants.

Trailing 4-3, Phil Garner walked with one out in the seventh, stole second and scored on Bill North's single. North took second on the throw to the plate and came home with the winning on a single by Bert Campaneris.

Yankees 2, Rangers 1

Graig Nettles slammed his 19th home run of the season on rookie Tommy Boggs' first pitch in the bottom of the ninth inning. Oscar Gamble homered for New York's first run while Doyle Alexander pitched a five-hitter and blanked Texas until the ninth.

Citizens Bank Win 2nd Half At Lansdowne

Citizens Bank of Ashville won the second half of the Upper Lansdowne Tuesday Night Ladies League and will meet Demmler Package Store, first half winners, Tuesday for the championship.

Here are the results of Tuesday's league play: Ashville Pharmacy 6½-Demmler Package Store 4½; Nutter Excavating 7-Ashville Cardinal Market 1; Citizens Bank of Ashville 9-ULLGA 2.

Low gross "A" honors went to Helen Hazelskes with a 46, Ramona Todhunter with a top in "B" with 50 and Sandy Winland took "C" laurels with a 54.

Demmler Package Store carded a low net team total of 118 to win the weekly golf ball awards.

There will be a steak cookout and square dance, open to the public, beginning 6:30 p.m. Aug. 28 at the course. Tickets are on sale at the pro shop.

Toledo Turns Back Rochester, 11-10

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jim Morris slammed two homers, a double and a single to drive in six runs, including the game winner, as Toledo nipped Rochester, 11-10, in International League baseball play Tuesday night.

In other action, Charleston beat Tidewater, 3-1; Syracuse edged Rhode Island, 3-2; and Memphis blasted Richmond, 12-1.

At Toledo, Morris's ninth-inning single brought home the winning run to give the Mud Hens their third victory in the past 15 games. Morris also hit a solo homer in the first, a two-run double in the sixth, and a two-run homer in the eighth.

Boobie Clark Plans To Play Out Option

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati fullback Boobie Clark says he plans to play out his option after next year and shop for a new National Football League team.

A rookie rage three years ago when he ran for 988 yards, Clark says he doesn't fit in the Bengals' pass-oriented attack.

"I've asked them to trade me a couple times, but they flat out said they would not do it," said Clark.

"They say they plan to run the ball more this year, but I'm skeptical. I don't prefer being a receiver. With me, being a running back is primary and receiving is secondary."

Three years ago Clark teamed up with Essex Johnson to give the Bengals their best-ever ground game.

The rapid development of quarterback Ken Anderson and a siege of backfield injuries has put emphasis on the passing game during the past two seasons. Cincinnati ranked 24th in rushing last year among the NFL's 26 clubs.

Meanwhile, Anderson captured his second straight passing title, completing 69 per cent of his passes for 3,169 yards.

"As long as they've got Ken Anderson here, they'll continue to emphasize the pass," said the 6-foot-2, 245-pound halfback.

Clark, who is averaging 2.5 yards per carry in 18 tries after three exhibition games, sat out much of 1974 with a broken arm, but was the leading rusher last year with 594 yards.

"I had a great preseason last year, but after the season started, they just froze me. I was getting maybe 12 carries per game. I look around the league and see those other guys get 1,000 yards and I know I can do it."

"But those guys are getting 250 carries a season. I'll never get close again as long as I'm here. You can't do it on 150 carries a season," he said.

Meanwhile, the Bengals appear to be moving away from the concept of bulky backfields. The addition of two-time Heisman Trophy winner Archie Griffin and speedster Willie Shelby of Alabama indicate a return to a lighter, quicker backfield.

Woman Repeats As Diving Champion

DECATUR, Ala. (AP) — Cynthia Potter McIngvale of Dallas repeated as champion of the women's one-meter springboard in the National Amateur Athletic Union outdoor diving championships Tuesday.

Mrs. McIngvale, who took the bronze medal in the recent Olympics on the three-meter board, said afterward that she would like to see the one-meter event become part of the Olympics.

"It's just as difficult at the three-meter," she said, adding that she might compete in the 1980 Olympics at Moscow if the short event is added.

Pears are one of the few fruits that do not ripen well on the tree. They are picked when they are mature but still green. Pears can be ripened to eating quality at home. Store them at room temperature, three or more together in a paper bag. When they begin to turn yellow, test for ripeness by applying gentle pressure with the palm of the hand. Pears ripen from the inside out, which means they should not be held until soft on the outside. At this stage they will be too soft in the center. Pears are ready to eat and can be refrigerated when still firm but not hard.

PEAR CRUNCH PIE

5 Bartlett pears                      1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
Unbaked pastry for 9-inch pie pan    1½ cups crushed corn flakes
1 tablespoon flour                      ½ cup butter or margarine
1 tablespoon lemon juice                      1 teaspoon cinnamon

Pare, halve, core and slice pears. Line a nine inch pie pan with pastry, fluting edges. Sprinkle flour on pie shell. Arrange pears in pie shell and sprinkle with lemon juice. With pastry blender or two knives, mix the remaining ingredients and spread over the pears. Bake in the oven at 375 degrees fahrenheit for 45 to 50 minutes or until pears are fork tender and top is crisp and lightly browned. Serve warm. This recipe makes six servings.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Don't Lie To Cover Up Son's Truancy

DEAR ABBY: So a teacher was upset because a student skipped school and her mother lied to protect her. Well, listen to this:

When my son was 15, he skipped school and I was called at work and asked if he was home sick. I said, "No, if he's not at school, he's playing hooky."

I was then informed that because he had skipped school three times before, he was kicked out of school for the remainder of the semester.

After trying for two and one half months to get him back in, I found out it was against the law to suspend a student for that long, but by then, he was so far behind he couldn't catch up, so he lost a whole semester.

I always thought honesty was the best policy, but that's the thanks I got for being honest.

If I had known then what I know now, I'd have lied to protect my son and punish him in my own way.

UPSET PARENT IN HELENA, MONTANA

DEAR UPSET: Although I think suspension is a most inappropriate punishment for skipping school, I can't condone lying to cover up a child's truancy.

DEAR ABBY: The letter about the husband and wife who allowed their small son into the bedroom during their most intimate moments interested me. This is a far cry from the way I was raised.

I was taught that sex was invented by the devil and was dirty, disgusting and sinful.

Now, at middle age, after two marriages and two children, I still haven't been able to think of sex as anything else.

Perhaps if my parents had invited me into their bedroom, I would have been less frustrated, self-conscious and guilt-ridden where sex is concerned.

JUST JOHN

DEAR JOHN: Sex education can and is taught to include an honest explanation without live demonstrations.

DEAR ABBY: Why don't they proclaim a national Daughter-in-Law's Day to honor all those daughter-in-laws because their own daughters are too busy to bother with them?

I have just had another one of those Mother's Days, and I don't think I could face another one. I invited my mother-in-law to my home for dinner when she let me know that her own daughters hadn't planned anything "special."

I was raised to respect my elders and to honor my parents (my own mother is deceased), so I was glad to have her.

Well, behind my back she invited her own children to come to MY home for dinner! They all "surprised" me, fed their fat faces, told Mom how "wonderful" she looked, and then left. Not one of them lifted a finger to help me, and nobody even said thanks.

To top it off, my mother-in-law is always bragging about what "terrific" children she had, and she doesn't even LIKE me.

In case you're wondering how I managed to feed a flock of unexpected company, I sent out for six buckets of chicken.

MARIE HAS HAD IT

DEAR MARIE: OK. Let's hear it for daughters-in-law out there!

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A. Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Ohio Early Days Education Leader

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Not the least part of Ohio's heritage is in the field of education. One historian has said "indeed, it has been said that the Buckeye State educated America, and there is good reason to accept that statement."

He referred to pupils of the McGuffey readers written in Ohio, and the grammar textbook written by Ohioan Thomas W. Harvey, and the arithmetic produced by Ohioan Joseph Ray—and penmanship taught by Platt R. Spencer and a shorthand system by Penn Pitman.

Ohio even now has more colleges and universities than any foreign nation, and until a few years ago there was no American state which had more colleges than Ohio. At least a dozen Ohio institutions of higher learning have exceeded a century in age.

What many people might overlook is the early background of Ohio. As America grew, it was across Ohio that all classes of settlers passed on their way to the West. Puritans from New England and planters from Virginia, Germans from Pennsylvania and Scots from North Carolina, Catholics from Maryland and Quakers from New Jersey, and the Irish youths who dug the Erie Canal—all of these came to the Ohio Valley. While many of them went on to Indiana or Illinois, many others remained on the fertile soil of the Buckeye State.

With all classes of settlers coming from the East and South, historians say it was natural that every religious denomination share in the movement. Each branch of the Christian family built its own churches, and the opening of colleges soon followed.

Nearly every denomination has, or has had, a college in Ohio, and several support more than one. But it was the state, and not the churches, that started higher education in Ohio.

Before the first governor finished his first term, the legislature in 1804 chartered Ohio University, at Athens, as a place for teaching agriculture. Other courses were added later. First degrees were awarded in 1815.

Sophia Loren Set For Minor Surgery

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. (AP) — Actress Sophia Loren will undergo minor surgery later this year, causing the postponement of Jocasta, a film to be shot in British Columbia, according to the production manager for the film.

Bob Gray, the production manager, said Tuesday the surgery is elective and not serious, but he would not elaborate.

The surgery would delay the film's eight-week production schedule until winter so Paramount Pictures has postponed production until next spring, he said.

The film, a Western, is to star Miss Loren, Rip Torn and Donald Pleasance. Production was to have started on Aug. 3.

Miss Loren is currently completing a film in North Africa.

City Halls

DETROIT (AP) — The mayor here is bringing City Hall to the people.

In addition to his main office, Mayor Coleman Young has set up 12 neighborhood city halls throughout the city to help bring city services closer to its citizens.

The mini-city halls help residents with applications for birth or death records, voter registration, complaints, fire prevention inspections, and other community needs.

Jobs For Ex-Cons Expanded By State

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Employment of ex-convicts by the state appears to be a growing issue that could lead to the establishment of a state policy on the subject, at least for the lottery commission.

The practice isn't new. Several governors, including incumbent James A. Rhodes, have used them around the governor's mansion and as chauffeurs, with good results.

They doubtless have served in other capacities without causing embarrassment to public employers.

However, recent revelations that the newly created lottery commission has hired seven and possibly more felons in its statewide operation have raised new questions.

Last week, a summary of the highway patrol's investigation into patient abuse charges at state mental institutions revealed more.

The summary, released by the Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation, said 20 attendants employed at the Columbus State Institute had records of "felony arrests" but did not say whether they had been convicted.

The complete findings of the patrol probe were withheld pending outcome of 82 court cases in which patient abuse has been charged. It was not indicated if any of those cases involved convicted felons.

The summary said some of the same type of employees at Longview State Hospital at Cincinnati had "criminal records."

Quoting from the patrol report, the summary suggested that the hospital employees should have been closely watched and supervised.

Rhodes, an advocate of rehabilitation, refused earlier this month

when a group of fellow Republicans asked him to order a highway patrol investigation into records of felons employed out of the lottery commission headquarters in Cleveland. "We have to have rehabilitation," he said, asserting, in effect, that former criminals deserved another chance once they have paid their debt to society.

Rhodes told Rep. William G. Batchelder, R-93 Medina, and the others they should put any information they had into the hands of the proper authorities, specifically the Cuyahoga County prosecutor and the attorney general—which they subsequently did.

However, Batchelder said he intends to pursue legislation to establish a policy with regard to the lottery commission. He said employment of former criminals in that agency "could pose a serious threat to the integrity and security of the entire lottery operation."

The Johnston Historical Museum in North Brunswick, N.J. houses a valuable collection of paintings by the American artist Norman Rockwell.

Mayors Set Support Of President

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Plans to organize local officials in support of the election of President Ford in November were announced Tuesday by leaders of the National Conference of Republican Mayors.

"We assume that President Ford is going to be nominated," Mayor Ralph Perk of Cleveland, the conference chairman, told a news conference at the GOP national convention.

Perk and other mayors at the session noted that the organization formally endorsed Ford in January in response to administration support for conversion of categorical grant programs into block grants and revenue sharing with local discretion on priorities.

The group included Mayor William Hudnut of Indianapolis, who said he feels personally committed to Ford for the GOP presidential nomination, although bound by state law to vote for Ronald Reagan on the first ballot Wednesday.

Hudnut said, however, he would support the election of Reagan if he is the Republican nominee.

Mayor Pete Wilson of San Diego, Calif., the only mayor on President Ford's list of vice presidential prospects, announced plans to organize state and local officials in support of Ford, but said that if Reagan is the GOP nominee for president "I would find it easy to support him."

Other mayors participating in the news conference included Jack Hunter of Youngstown, Ohio, Richard Kind of Independence, Mo., Dwaine Hoberg of Moorhead, Minn., Stanley Crnich of Canton, Ohio, and Richard Carber of Peoria, Ill.

Tied Up

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — When a customer called a pizza parlor to order pizza, the parlor's manager was in no condition to fill the order. He was tied up — literally.

Robert Dunham told police that a masked man, carrying a small revolver and rope, entered the parlor, tied him to a chair and left with $285 of the parlor's money.

Dunham managed to move the chair near the phone, wait for it to ring and ask the caller to call the police.

The Darby Flying Needles 4-H club purchased a box of altar candles for the Derby United Methodist Church as their 1976 community project. This was in appreciation for use of the recreation hall for their 4-H club meetings.

Alcott Ratcliff of Clark's Lake won first place in the yearling class at the Pickaway County Fair Horse Show.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Shea called on their friends Mr. and Mrs. Archie Sweet on Tuesday.

A birthday party was held at Cottage Three at Orient State Institute recently. Cottage coordinator Nancy Stills baked a cake for the occasion honoring Mrs. Marie Bowshier on her 25 years of nursing service for the state.

A Sunday school teachers dinner will be held at Duff's on Hamilton Road, Columbus, from the Southwest Community Church of the Nazarene on Aug. 27.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Don't Lie To Cover Up Son's Truancy

DEAR ABBY: So a teacher was upset because a student skipped school and her mother lied to protect her. Well, listen to this:

When my son was 15, he skipped school and I was called at work and asked if he was home sick. I said, "No, if he's not at school, he's playing hooky."

I was then informed that because he had skipped school three times before, he was kicked out of school for the remainder of the semester.

After trying for two and one half months to get him back in, I found out it was against the law to suspend a student for that long, but by then, he was so far behind he couldn't catch up, so he lost a whole semester.

I always thought honesty was the best policy, but that's the thanks I got for being honest.

If I had known then what I know now, I'd have lied to protect my son and punish him in my own way.

UPSET PARENT IN HELENA, MONTANA

DEAR UPSET: Although I think suspension is a most inappropriate punishment for skipping school, I can't condone lying to cover up a child's truancy.

DEAR ABBY: The letter about the husband and wife who allowed their small son into the bedroom during their most intimate moments interested me. This is a far cry from the way I was raised.

I was taught that sex was invented by the devil and was dirty, disgusting and sinful.

Now, at middle age, after two marriages and two children, I still haven't been able to think of sex as anything else.

Perhaps if my parents had invited me into their bedroom, I would have been less frustrated, self-conscious and guilt-ridden where sex is concerned.

JUST JOHN

DEAR JOHN: Sex education can and is taught to include an honest explanation without live demonstrations.

DEAR ABBY: Why don't they proclaim a national Daughter-in-Law's Day to honor all those daughter-in-laws because their own daughters are too busy to bother with them?

I have just had another one of those Mother's Days, and I don't think I could face another one. I invited my mother-in-law to my home for dinner when she let me know that her own daughters hadn't planned anything "special."

I was raised to respect my elders and to honor my parents (my own mother is deceased), so I was glad to have her.

Well, behind my back she invited her own children to come to MY home for dinner! They all "surprised" me, fed their fat faces, told Mom how "wonderful" she looked, and then left. Not one of them lifted a finger to help me, and nobody even said thanks.

To top it off, my mother-in-law is always bragging about what "terrific" children she had, and she doesn't even LIKE me.

In case you're wondering how I managed to feed a flock of unexpected company, I sent out for six buckets of chicken.

MARIE HAS HAD IT

DEAR MARIE: OK. Let's hear it for daughters-in-law out there!

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A. Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Ohio Early Days Education Leader

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Not the least part of Ohio's heritage is in the field of education. One historian has said "indeed, it has been said that the Buckeye State educated America, and there is good reason to accept that statement."

He referred to pupils of the McGuffey readers written in Ohio, and the grammar textbook written by Ohioan Thomas W. Harvey, and the arithmetic produced by Ohioan Joseph Ray—and penmanship taught by Platt R. Spencer and a shorthand system by Penn Pitman.

Ohio even now has more colleges and universities than any foreign nation, and until a few years ago there was no American state which had more colleges than Ohio. At least a dozen Ohio institutions of higher learning have exceeded a century in age.

What many people might overlook is the early background of Ohio. As America grew, it was across Ohio that all classes of settlers passed on their way to the West. Puritans from New England and planters from Virginia, Germans from Pennsylvania and Scots from North Carolina, Catholics from Maryland and Quakers from New Jersey, and the Irish youths who dug the Erie Canal—all of these came to the Ohio Valley. While many of them went on to Indiana or Illinois, many others remained on the fertile soil of the Buckeye State.

With all classes of settlers coming from the East and South, historians say it was natural that every religious denomination share in the movement. Each branch of the Christian family built its own churches, and the opening of colleges soon followed.

Nearly every denomination has, or has had, a college in Ohio, and several support more than one. But it was the state, and not the churches, that started higher education in Ohio.

Before the first governor finished his first term, the legislature in 1804 chartered Ohio University, at Athens, as a place for teaching agriculture. Other courses were added later. First degrees were awarded in 1815.

Sophia Loren Set For Minor Surgery

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. (AP) — Actress Sophia Loren will undergo minor surgery later this year, causing the postponement of Jocasta, a film to be shot in British Columbia, according to the production manager for the film.

Bob Gray, the production manager, said Tuesday the surgery is elective and not serious, but he would not elaborate.

The surgery would delay the film's eight-week production schedule until winter so Paramount Pictures has postponed production until next spring, he said.

The film, a Western, is to star Miss Loren, Rip Torn and Donald Pleasance. Production was to have started on Aug. 3.

Miss Loren is currently completing a film in North Africa.

City Halls

DETROIT (AP) — The mayor here is bringing City Hall to the people.

In addition to his main office, Mayor Coleman Young has set up 12 neighborhood city halls throughout the city to help bring city services closer to its citizens.

The mini-city halls help residents with applications for birth or death records, voter registration, complaints, fire prevention inspections, and other community needs.

Jobs For Ex-Cons Expanded By State

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Employment of ex-convicts by the state appears to be a growing issue that could lead to the establishment of a state policy on the subject, at least for the lottery commission.

The practice isn't new. Several governors, including incumbent James A. Rhodes, have used them around the governor's mansion and as chauffeurs, with good results.

They doubtless have served in other capacities without causing embarrassment to public employers.

However, recent revelations that the newly created lottery commission has hired seven and possibly more felons in its statewide operation have raised new questions.

Last week, a summary of the highway patrol's investigation into patient abuse charges at state mental institutions revealed more.

The summary, released by the Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation, said 20 attendants employed at the Columbus State Institute had records of "felony arrests" but did not say whether they had been convicted.

The complete findings of the patrol probe were withheld pending outcome of 82 court cases in which patient abuse has been charged. It was not indicated if any of those cases involved convicted felons.

The summary said some of the same type of employees at Longview State Hospital at Cincinnati had "criminal records."

Quoting from the patrol report, the summary suggested that the hospital employees should have been closely watched and supervised.

Rhodes, an advocate of rehabilitation, refused earlier this month

when a group of fellow Republicans asked him to order a highway patrol investigation into records of felons employed out of the lottery commission headquarters in Cleveland.

"We have to have rehabilitation," he said, asserting, in effect, that former criminals deserved another chance once they have paid their debt to society.

Rhodes told Rep. William G. Batchelder, R-93 Medina, and the others they should put any information they had into the hands of the proper authorities, specifically the Cuyahoga County prosecutor and the attorney general—which they subsequently did.

However, Batchelder said he intends to pursue legislation to establish a policy with regard to the lottery commission. He said employment of former criminals in that agency "could pose a serious threat to the integrity and security of the entire lottery operation."

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR THURSDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): A mixed kind of day in terms of work. Your ideas are good, but you can meet with obstacles. There may be more to do than you expected. Take all in stride.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): An excellent day for all creative activity. Superiors may take an unusual interest in your ideas. In fact, you should receive welcome cooperation from all.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Real problems are likely to be confused with imaginary ones. Look thoroughly over your schedule and weed out nonessentials. To clear your vision, you first must clear your path.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): It's mostly up to you whether you will gain ground, make ends meet or just drift. Some usual suggestions or directions will be absent. Be ready to "muddle through."

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Avoid worry over "what might have been" or "what things SHOULD be." Consider the over-all picture and you'll find that you have no reason for anxiety.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): You can accomplish a great deal now — unless you are restricted by rigid habit or your innate over-meticulousness. Emphasize flexibility.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): You will require more than ordinary patience now; will also have to be extremely careful in making decisions. Turn thumbs down on dubious schemes.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23): Some opposition likely. Listen quietly to all, analyze, interpret carefully and, thus fortified, you can plan effective strategy for overcoming it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Examine your inner feelings to determine your true sentiments and sense of values. Otherwise, you may be misled by your emotions.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Don't blow up trifles beyond all proportion, and DO be careful not to misjudge others. You could get the wrong angle on their activities through your own misinterpretation.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Mixed planetary influences should put you on your toes now. There's a special need for adaptability and efficiency — also a sense of humor!

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Don't crowd yourself in the early hours, so that you become overly fatigued. Some interesting situations arising after noon will demand your complete alertness, good judgment.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a dynamic personality, tremendous energy and unusual versatility along both business and creative lines. You are extremely ambitious and will work unstintingly to achieve your goals. You are a salesman par excellence and can sell your wares — and yourself — with almost incredible ease. Traits to conquer: extravagance, a tendency toward boastfulness, irritability when others displease you. Birth-date of: Bernard Baruch, Amer. financier; Orville Wright, airplane inventor; Jill St. John, film actress.

Views On Tiger

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — When the GOP convention's second night began in brightlylit Kemper Arena, Joe Angotti was in a small, dimly lit booth a quarter-mile away. He faced 27 TV sets and long night's work in television's hot seat.

He's NBC's "inside producer," a key man primarily responsible for the sights and sounds millions of viewers saw on the convention floor Tuesday night, from the long, noisy demonstrations to major and minor interviews by NBC's four floor reporters.

Angotti's task, running the critical floor operation, was akin to that of an air traffic controller in a busy city — make decisions, make them fast and make them in an atmosphere of seeming chaos.

His bailiwick didn't include the podium — another producer had that — but it's just as well. What Angotti, 37, had to do included:

— Talking with and giving instructions and information to reporters Tom Brokaw, Catherine Mackin, Tom Pettit and John Hart, all this occurring over a closed-circuit radio system built into the headsets each reporter wore.

— Giving instructions to and hearing from three men sitting in front of him — the assistant director who set up future shots, the director who called the shots and the technical director who actually put them on television.

— Conferring about stories, sequence of floor reports and reports from outside the arena with NBC's "on-air" producer, Les Crystal, who was in overall charge of everything broadcast by NBC during Tuesday night's session.

When we arrived, Angotti was addressing his four floor troops simultaneously, asking them to find Ronald Reagan delegates or officials who'd discuss on the air President Ford's achieving a majority in news media delegate polls.

Alas, none would talk to the reporters, who were watched by eight balcony cameras they could see overhead or by one of two small portable cameras NBC was allowed on the floor.

During a broadcast discussion of coming events between Hart and co-anchor David Brinkley, the latter high above the convention floor in a glass booth, Miss Mackin notified Angotti on the closed-circuit system she had found a Reagan official who'd talk.

"Where are you?" Angotti asked.

"Down by South Carolina," she said, meaning the delegation. An overhead camera searched her area, and found her. She identified the man by name and they waited.

But the Mackin interview was held up by another matter. Then Brokaw checked in with a story idea we couldn't hear over the noise in the control booth. Angotti could hear it, listening bent over the small speaker in front of him.

"Brokaw, in answer to your question, yes, I like the Pennsylvania idea," he said. Later, Miss Mackin and her subject got in a quick interview before a commercial.

Fishing Gear
Taken From Locked Van

Over $275 worth of fishing equipment was taken from a locked truck owned by Jeffrey S. Hayhow, 1955 Ottawa Drive, since last Friday night.

The burglary was not discovered until 7 p.m. Tuesday, according to Hayhow, who told Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy Nick Franklin that the door lock on the van had been broken to allow entry.

The van was parked in the driveway of his home. Fishing equipment taken include two Mitchell Garcia 300 spinning reels, two Garcia Econoline rods, a Pfluger bait casting rod and reel, a Sears Ted Williams fly casting rod and reel, fishing tackle, and an IDI eight-track tape player.

A tent owned by Richard Fowler, Columbus, was also taken.

Seventy-year-old Arthur S. McClain, and his wife, Frances, 8027 Stout Road, were injured when a car they were repairing fell off its support.

Both were treated for minor injuries by the Circleville Emergency Medical Team, although McClain required further treatment at Berger Hospital.

They were apparently under a 1964 Mercury when it coasted down two boards off brick supports which were holding the front end off the ground.

Injury
Accident
Investigated

Circleville Police investigated a car-tricycle accident at 12:15 p.m. Tuesday that resulted in slight injury to a six year old boy.

According to the report, Murl Campbell, 61, 329 E. Main St. was eastbound on Mound Street at the intersection of South Pickaway Street. Campbell told police the light had turned yellow as he was under it, and Steven Dorsey, 6, 204 E. Mound St. rode his "big wheel" tricycle into the right front of Campbell's auto.

After striking the car, young Dorsey fell off the tricycle and sustained a bruise to his right knee.

No citations were issued by investigating officer William Pontious.

Syrian Forces
Clear Way
For Pullout

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syrian forces have moved back from the mountain town of Hammana to clear the way for Palestinian withdrawal from Christian towns and villages along the mountains east of Beirut, Christian spokesmen said today.

Palestinian leaders and commanders of the Christians' Phalange militia have been negotiating quietly to arrange such a withdrawal, but so far the Palestinians and their leftist Lebanese Moslem allies have refused to budge unless the Christians' Syrian allies pull back their invasion army.

Leftist leader Kamal Jumblatt vowed Tuesday not to "withdraw as much as one iota." He said the Moslem forces would defend their positions in the mountain area "because it is for us a battle for survival."

Christian and Palestinian forces on the western slopes of the mountains have been trading increasingly heavy artillery fire since the Christian capture of the Palestinians' Tal Zaatar camp last week. The mountain front overlooks the Christian enclave north of Beirut.

The Christians said the Syrians remained deployed in positions just above Hammana, with their artillery commanding the main supply routes to the leftists. They said the Syrians pulled back to open the paved road through Hammana so the Moslems could retreat to Beirut, 18 miles to the west.

Meanwhile, Beirut's residential areas were rocked by heavy shelling by both sides during the night. The Phalange radio said the exchange was one of the fiercest in the 16-month-old civil war. Shells were still falling on the Hamra shopping area late this morning.

Hospital officials who try to keep a casualty count said about 90 persons were killed and more than 120 wounded during the night. Most were non-combatants, they said.
